See Shift by Hanoi On Viet Cong Role

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam has apparently enlarged its room for maneuver in peace negotiations by downgrading slightly the Viet Cong's program for South Vietnam's future.

A lessening of the importance Hanoi has attached to the National Liberation Front could contribute to progress toward ending the war at some later stage of the peace talks. But it leaves the deadlock over stopping the bombing of the North and de-escalating the conflict in the South.

On the bombing issue, the North Vietnamese are holding to their demand that President Johnson end all attacks on their territory without any cutback in their military operations in return.

The United States has been equally insistent that North Vietnam must show some military restraint.

U.S. officials came here in early May believing that North Vietnam would eventually shift its position on the bombing. Now they are beginning to reassess their judgment. The deadlock which has dominated the conference for more than two months may be more difficult to break than they thought.

Some of President Johnson's advisers are known to advocate that he stop all remaining attacks on the North in return for minimum reciprocity.

"But it makes it awfully hard for the President," one informant remarked, "if the other side won't move at all."

Ambassador Xuan Thuy reiterated in the 14th session of the Paris talks Wednesday that no other subjects could be discussed until all attacks on North Vietnam cease. Nevertheless, other subjects were discussed as usual, although such talk continues to be highly inconclusive.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told Thuy that if he ever wants to make any progress toward a peaceful settlement, North Vietnam will have to accept the government of South Vietnam in a peace-making role.

Thuy said last week his government would never negotiate with the Saigon regime. And Hanoi Radio repeated today that the Saigon government is "only an illegal puppet creation of the U.S. aggressors" and the National Liberation Front "is the only authentic representative of the South Vietnam people."

However, when Harriman asked Thuy whether Hanoi is shifting its policy on the peace-making role of the Liberation Front, he received a response which suggested to U.S. officials that Hanoi's policy has altered slightly to provide negotiating flexibility.

Thuy told Harriman, that the front's program constituted a "correct political line" corresponding to the "legitimate desires" of the South Vietnamese people.

B52s Unload On Red Camps Near Border

Casualties Drop; 157 Americans Reported Killed

SAIGON (AP) — Fifty of America's most powerful bombers, the U.S. Air Force's B52s, attacked enemy base camps along the Cambodian border north of Saigon and in the central highlands Wednesday and today.

Senior U.S. officers said the heavy raids were made because of "a lot of enemy activity."

Flying in formations of five planes each, 10 waves of the Stratofortresses dropped 1,500 tons of explosives.

The U.S. Command also announced the loss of two more fighter-bombers, a Navy F4 Phantom downed about 150 miles north of the demilitarized zone and an Air Force Phantom which was hit by enemy fire in South Vietnam and crashed into Da Nang harbor.

All four fliers were rescued. The Navy plane was the 868th U.S. warplane lost in combat over North Vietnam, while the other Phantom was the 286th such combat loss in the South.

The prolonged lull in the ground war, now in its fifth week, was reflected in the weekly casualty report. U.S. headquarters said 157 Americans were killed in combat last week, the lowest weekly total since early last October. It was the fourth consecutive week the total of U.S. deaths was below 200.

South Vietnamese and enemy casualties of 156 and 1,248 dead, respectively, were slightly less than the week before, but the number of Americans wounded increased considerably, from 1,337 in the week that ended July 13 to 2,014 last week.

Twenty of the B52 bombers attacked elements of two North Vietnamese regiments believed massing along the Cambodian border 70 to 75 miles north of Saigon for the expected new Communist offensive. Some of the attacks were less than three miles from the border.

Son Lost By Minister In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Henry Perryman kept picking through the ashes of his home Wednesday.

Perryman, a 43-year-old "independent minister" was on his way to Akron Tuesday night "to help cool things there" when he heard his neighborhood was in flames.

He came back and found his wife and two-year-old daughter pinned down on the sidewalk by a shootout between police and black militants in which 11 were killed.

He and his wife watched as their house burned. Five militants had burst in on Mrs. Perryman and forced her to flee as it became the focal point of the gun battle.

Still dazed and with no sleep, the Negro minister kept walking among the rubble of his home Wednesday.

"All my things are lost," he said, "and my boy."

His son, George, 11, was still missing late Wednesday. Perryman's wife remembers seeing George outside for a second when she ran out of the house. She hasn't seen him since. No one has.

"I look through the ashes and pray," Perryman said.

Post Office Cuts Begin Saturday

Because of the Congressional mandate to cut back Federal Employment to the June 30, 1966, level, mail service limitations will start Saturday in Circleville, Postmaster Charles Walters said today.

The local postal head has been advised by Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson to comply with the cut back required by Congress under the recently-enacted tax bill (Public Law 90-364) by reducing some postal services and curtailing new hiring.

Curtailments as follows will take effect locally:

Effective Saturday, all regular Saturday and Sunday window services will be discontinued; effective Saturday, collections of mail from street deposit boxes will be adjusted to conform to the generally less frequent Sunday collection schedules.

POSTMASTER Walters also noted that beginning July 1 all planned extensions of city and rural delivery were curtailed. At this time there are no plans to provide mail delivery service to new housing subdivisions and apartment projects.

"This is not a matter of dollars but of people," Postmaster General Watson explained. "Under the manpower restrictions imposed by the tax bill, we simply will not have enough people to continue postal services at their present level."

Nancy Wilson Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Nancy Wilson sued her husband, music director Kenneth C. Dennis, for divorce Wednesday, charging him with "extreme cruelty."

Miss Wilson, 31, asked for custody of their 5-year-old son, Kenneth Jr., and division of community property, including the family home in View Park.

"Hopefully," Watson added, "Congress will correct this situation."

Postmaster Walters emphasized that the Post Office Department agreed to the reduction in funds for the 1969 fiscal year that began July 1 and is not asking for a restoration of any money cut from its budget.

"The Postmaster General," Walters explained, "told us we could operate within our budget and maintain postal services at or near their present level if we did not have to reduce employment to the June 1966 level."

The Postmaster noted also that he has been directed to submit his plans by Sept. 1 regarding his proposals on how

Dior Holds Hemlines Above Knee

PARIS (AP) — Christian Dior held hemlines two inches above the knee today and presented a close-to-the-body silhouette that included jackets dropped to wrist length or fingertip length for every hour.

For daytime and city wear the longer jackets appeared throughout. For sports he does them in gray flannel or heavy wools. They are always belted and lined with bright colors or muted fall shades which are recalled in the top of the dress or sweater.

See No Special Judge for Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge to hear the Robert F. Kennedy murder trial will be chosen "in the normal way," says Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer, in charge of the court calendar.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, charged with murdering the New York senator, will appear before Schauer to enter a plea Aug. 2.

A trial date and a trial judge will be decided at that time, barring further continuances or a plea of guilty, Schauer said Wednesday.

Fire Damages Cincy Restaurant

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mecklenburg's Garden, long a Cincinnati landmark as a beer garden and restaurant, was damaged by fire early today.

A preliminary estimate placed the damage at about $9,000.

Police said a 48-year-old man was arrested at the scene in connection with the fire.

Most Guard Units Released By Governor

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Negro peacekeepers strolling the teeming streets of the East Side maintained a measure of calm Wednesday night among crowds still restless over Tuesday's savage gun battle which left 10 dead.

Only minor incidents of looting and burning occurred during the night hours as 3,600 National Guardsmen were restricted to duty along the troubled area's perimeter and all white persons were banned from the Glenville neighborhood.

The only police in the area were Negroes.

In Columbus, Gov. James A. Rhodes approved release of all but 3,000 of the 16,000 National Guardsmen called to duty Tuesday midnight. Most of those remaining on duty will be in the Cleveland area.

Negro officers escorted white shopkeepers into the trouble area today and many of the merchants boarded up their places of business in an attempt to prevent looting.

The area was reported quiet except for scattered incidents of looting and a few minor fires.

Mayor Carl Stokes said today that his gamble on the Negro community leaders paid off: "We had no shooting and we had no deaths."

Stokes, first Negro mayor of a major U.S. city, said it was too early to consider releasing the guardsmen. "We are playing it hour by hour and minute by minute."

The plan to use "black community leadership" came in re-

Detroit Hit By Small Disturbance

DETROIT (AP) — Rock-throwing crowds smashed several windows along Detroit's 12th Street early today and police arrested 14 persons in connection with the disturbance.

"Looting was held to a minimum," said an officer from the 10th Precinct, which covers the 12th Street area, where the worst riot in modern American history first flared up a year ago.

"It was mostly broken windows this time," the officer said, adding that most of those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct, breaking and entering or traffic offenses.

Police in the area were on a tactical alert for 5½ hours, but the alert was lifted at about dawn.

Meanwhile, across the state in Benton Harbor, police reported calm overnight for the first time in four days.

Commenting on the number of arrests in Detroit earlier in the evening, a 10th Precinct officer said the number was "not unusual for a night like this."

N.Y. Times Likes Rocky

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times today editorially endorsed New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination but refrained from any endorsements in the election.

The Times said Republicans "can nominate a man with broad understanding of foreign affairs, with demonstrated popular appeal to Negro as well as white voters, and with valuable executive experience. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is that man."

The editorial added: "In saying this, we specifically refrain from a commitment to his support in the election. While we believe he is the strongest Republican candidate, we do not yet know whether he will be preferable to the Democratic nominee."

House Passes Gun Measure

See Final Action In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved a gun-control bill falling far short of President Johnson's recommendations and has sent it on to the Senate where final action is not expected until September.

At the same time Wednesday, the Senate Judiciary approved a similar measure 9-3 and sent it to the floor.

The House bill was approved 304 to 118 after several amendments opposed by backers of stronger gun controls were tacked on.

One such amendment was sharply criticized by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee who said it would greatly benefit the National Rifle Association.

Celler called the amendment "dreadful," and said that if it survives he will stage congressional hearings to bare NRA activities which Celler said "can't stand the light of day."

As passed by the House the bill:

—Prohibits the interstate sale of rifles and shotguns through the mail except by licensed dealers.

—Prohibits over-the-counter sale to nonresidents except to those from contiguous states. This was amended to also include those who sign an affidavit that their firearm was lost, stolen or had become inoperable.

In the latter instance, the dealer must report the sale to the purchaser's police department.

—Prohibits the mail order sale of ammunition for pistols, revolvers and destructive weapons. This was amended to exclude over-the-counter sales for all ammunition and mail order sales of ammunition for rifles, shotguns and rimfire .22 caliber shells.

—Prohibits the sale of long guns to anyone under 18 years old and hand guns to anyone under 21. Ammunition for those guns could not be sold to anyone in those age brackets.

—Prohibits the sale of firearms to a fugitive; a felon; one under indictment; a user of narcotics, or a mental defective.

—Requires that all persons engaging in business as a firearms or ammunition manufacturer, importer or dealer must have a license. Gun collectors dealing in firearms as relics or curios could obtain a license so they could buy and sell in interstate commerce.

Many Wounded Soldiers Return To Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 50 per cent of the American troops wounded seriously enough to be hospitalized in the Vietnam war are reassigned to fighting units, according to Pentagon statistics.

The figures show that of 51,252 hospitalized wounded in the 1965-67 period, 23,539 returned to service in Vietnam.

Of the rest, 15,006, or about 30 per cent, were assigned outside the war zone, 3,400 got disability discharges, 1,585 died and 7,722 were still in the hospital at the end of 1967.

A total of 48,565 others who suffered what is loosely termed as bandaged wounds either continued fighting or returned to duty after getting treatment from battlefield aid stations.

The percentage of wounded men leaving the war points up the policy differences among the services concerning the reassignment of men wounded during the fighting.

A Navy man or a Marine, for example, may be shipped out of the war zone for good if he is twice wounded, both requiring 48 hours or more in the hospital.

The Army has a much tougher policy. A soldier can be laid up nearly two months and still go back to the war when he is fit.

The Air Force has virtually no policy at all except in the case of serious wounds.

The Pentagon says the decision on casualty reassignments is left to each service because of their varied manpower needs.

There is no plan to standardize the policies, a spokesman said.

Report MIGs Over Sinai

TEL AVIV (AP) — Three Egyptian MIG fighters crossed the Suez Canal and flew over the Israeli-occupied Sinai Desert today, but Israeli warplanes chased them back, the Israeli army announced.

A spokesman said the encounter occurred "at a very great height." There was no aerial battle and the Israeli planes returned safely to their base, he said.

It was the first report of Egyptian planes crossing the canal since immediately after the June 1967 war. Press reports said several Israeli jets flew over Egypt recently, but this has never been admitted by the Israeli air force.

Israeli and Jordanian forces had another duel with automatic rifles across the Jordan River but no casualties were reported.

Jordan also announced it had hanged a 32-year-old Jordanian from the Israeli-occupied territory west of the river as a spy.

Support Grows To Make Kennedy Demo Veep Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Support reportedly is growing among some Democratic party leaders for a possible spot on the national ticket for Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Former Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said Wednesday many party leaders supporting Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the top spot on the Democratic ticket have told him they would back Kennedy as a running mate.

Kennedy's possible candidacy also got a strong boost Wednesday from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, who declared, "I hope the convention will draft Ted Kennedy for the vice presidency."

Daley said he thinks Kennedy would make a "great running mate" for whom ever the convention nominates as the party standard bearer.

There was no comment from Kennedy, who has been publicly silent on all political matters since the assassination of his brother, Robert, last month.

The Kennedy candidacy reports were the political highlight in a day in which Humphrey delivered a speech before the International Platform Association in Washington and two Republican presidential hopefuls—Ronald Reagan and Nelson A. Rockefeller—toured in the South and Midwest.

Humphrey's major rival for the Democratic nomination,

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, tended to Senate affairs in his Washington office while Republican hopeful Richard M. Nixon vacationed in California.

Although Humphrey has declined to disavow Johnson administration policies in Vietnam, the vice president has for several weeks conducted what might be described as an attempt at gentle disengagement.

Before the platform association he stressed, as he has in numerous campaign speeches, the need to learn from what he calls mistakes in Vietnam.

"Too often we pay for what we think will be peace with blood, with men and munitions. I suggest we start to pay the bill for peace with goods, and with services and with capital and with education and with health and with social development," Humphrey said.

Later, Humphrey told newsmen he would issue within the next 10 days two statements on American policy toward Asia and Southeast Asia.

On the Republican side, sources close to Nixon said the candidate probably would pick a vice presidential running mate within the next week but that the man who is chosen probably won't know about it for awhile.

The sources said Nixon has been conducting private polls in several major states to test reaction to several potential choices but that results have not been conclusive.

Rockefeller wooed young voters in a midtown Kansas City speech Wednesday, then tried to persuade Missouri and Kansas delegates to support him if Nixon doesn't win nomination on an early ballot.

The New York governor called the delegates a "mighty friendly group" but said he could not tell what effect his talk had on them.

Dick Berkley, Kansas City GOP chairman who says he is an uncommitted delegate, estimated many Missouri delegates may go for Rockefeller if Nixon does not win early.

"That's all we ask," said a Rockefeller aide. Most of the Missouri delegates reportedly favor Nixon while Kansans will back retiring Sen. Frank Carlson as favorite son on the first ballot.

Reagan, boosting his unannounced candidacy with an appearance in Birmingham, Ala., rejected suggestions that Republicans and Democrats join in an agreement to lessen the impact of a big November vote for third-party candidate George Wallace.

Reagan said such a move might boomerang and help Wallace's campaign by getting people "to thinking about an unholy alliance."

Reagan again disclaimed any intention to announce as an active presidential candidate and said "I have not solicited and will not solicit" the nomination.

Storms Hit From Plains To Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms spilled rain over a long stretch of the country from the central plains to the northeast today while showers dampened almost the entire length of the Rockies.

The stormy weather, frequently erupting into heavy rains and damaging winds, marked the leading edge of a cold front that has become almost stationary in its forward movement in the past few days.

A heavy thunderstorm thrashed the southeastern Pennsylvania community of Manheim Wednesday night with more than 2 inches of rain.

Nearly 2 inches of rain drenched Wright Patterson Air Force Base, northeast of Dayton, Ohio, and 1-inch downpours were common along the storm belt.

Showers scattered through the Rockies were mostly on the light side. Warm and humid weather hung onto portions of the east and south.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge to hear the Robert F. Kennedy murder trial will be chosen "in the normal way," says Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer, in charge of the court calendar.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 23, charged with murdering the New York senator, will appear before Schauer to enter a plea Aug. 2.

A trial date and a trial judge will be decided at that time, barring further continuances or a plea of guilty, Schauer said Wednesday.

Fire Damages Cincy Restaurant

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mecklenburg's Garden, long a Cincinnati landmark as a beer garden and restaurant, was damaged by fire early today.

A preliminary estimate placed the damage at about $9,000.

Police said a 48-year-old man was arrested at the scene in connection with the fire.

Most Guard Units Released By Governor

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Negro peacemakers strolling the teeming streets of the East Side maintained a measure of calm Wednesday night among crowds still restless over Tuesday's savage gun battle which left 10 dead.

Only minor incidents of looting and burning occurred during the night hours as 3,600 National Guardsmen were restricted to duty along the troubled area's perimeter and all white persons were banned from the Glenville neighborhood.

The only police in the area were Negroes.

In Columbus, Gov. James A. Rhodes approved release of all but 3,000 of the 16,000 National Guardsmen called to duty Tuesday midnight. Most of those remaining on duty will be in the Cleveland area.

Negro officers escorted white shopkeepers into the trouble area today and many of the merchants boarded up their places of business in an attempt to prevent looting.

The area was reported quiet except for scattered incidents of looting and a few minor fires.

Mayor Carl Stokes said today that his gamble on the Negro community leaders paid off: "We had no shooting and we had no deaths."

Stokes, first Negro mayor of a major U.S. city, said it was too early to consider releasing the guardsmen. "We are playing it hour by hour and minute by minute."

The plan to use "black community leadership" came in re-

Detroit Hit By Small Disturbance

DETROIT (AP) — Rock-throwing crowds smashed several windows along Detroit's 12th Street early today and police arrested 14 persons in connection with the disturbance.

"Looting was held to a minimum," said an officer from the 10th Precinct, which covers the 12th Street area, where the worst riot in modern American history first flared up a year ago.

"It was mostly broken windows this time," the officer said, adding that most of those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct, breaking and entering or traffic offenses.

Police in the area were on a tactical alert for 5½ hours, but the alert was lifted at about dawn.

Meanwhile, across the state in Benton Harbor, police reported calm overnight for the first time in four days.

Commenting on the number of arrests in Detroit earlier in the evening, a 10th Precinct officer said the number was "not unusual for a night like this."

N.Y. Times Likes Rocky

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times today editorially endorsed New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination but refrained from any endorsements in the election.

The Times said Republicans "can nominate a man with broad understanding of foreign affairs, with demonstrated popular appeal to Negro as well as white voters, and with valuable executive experience. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is that man."

The editorial added: "In saying this, we specifically refrain from a commitment to his support in the election. While we believe he is the strongest Republican candidate, we do not yet know whether he will be preferable to the Democratic nominee."

House Passes Gun Measure

See Final Action In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved a gun-control bill, falling far short of President Johnson's recommendations and has sent it on to the Senate where final action is not expected until September.

At the same time Wednesday, the Senate Judiciary approved a similar measure 9-3 and sent it to the floor.

The House bill was approved 304 to 118 after several amendments opposed by backers of stronger gun controls were tacked on.

One such amendment was sharply criticized by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee who said it would greatly benefit the National Rifle Association.

Celler called the amendment "dreadful," and said that if it survives he will stage congressional hearings to bare NRA activities which Celler said "can't stand the light of day."

As passed by the House the bill:

—Prohibits the interstate sale of rifles and shotguns through the mail except by licensed dealers.

—Prohibits over-the-counter sale to nonresidents except to those from contiguous states. This was amended to also include those who sign an affidavit that their firearm was lost, stolen or had become inoperative. In the latter instance, the dealer must report the sale to the purchaser's police department.

—Prohibits the mail order sale of ammunition for pistols, revolvers and destructive weapons. This was amended to exclude over-the-counter sales for all ammunition and mail order sales of ammunition for rifles, shotguns and rimfire .22 caliber shells.

—Prohibits the sale of long guns to anyone under 18 years old and hand guns to anyone under 21. Ammunition for those guns could not be sold to anyone in those age brackets.

—Prohibits the sale of firearms to a fugitive; a felon; one under indictment; a user of narcotics; or a mental defective.

—Requires that all persons engaging in business as a firearms or ammunition manufacturer, importer or dealer must have a license. Gun collectors dealing in firearms as relics or curios could obtain a license so they could buy and sell in interstate commerce.

sponse to a challenge by Stokes who met with 109 Negro leaders Wednesday.

"I challenged them as to what the Negro community itself would do about the problem," he said. There were some 500 Negro leaders and about 100 Negro police in Glenview Wednesday night, urging residents to go home and curtailing minor outbreaks of looting.

Three white policemen and seven Negro civilians were killed in Tuesday night's exchange of gunfire. A 10th victim was identified by police Wednesday night as a looter shot by a policeman.

The victim, Donald Crim, was at first thought to be the 11th person killed in the violence but it was discovered his name had erroneously been placed on the casualty list twice with two different spellings.

Ten police and nine other persons were either wounded by gunfire or injured in the looting, burning and looting that caused an estimated $1.5 million in damages in the Glenview neighborhood.

Police investigators continued probing the deadly uprising and the background of the Negro militants who Mayor Stokes said were responsible for the killings.

Ahmed Fred Evans, a black nationalist, was being held for the second day without charge as police investigated his role. Evans surrendered to police Tuesday and was quoted by officers as saying he led 17 men in the bloody attack.

Evans was told by police that two snipers were believed dead. "They died for a worthy cause," Evans was quoted as saying.

Police said Evans surrendered and told them, "If my carbine hadn't jammed, I would have killed you. You police have bothered us too long."

Evans, an astrologer who favors African garb, has conferred with Stokes on several occasions. The mayor described him as having a "black nationalist viewpoint."

Disclose Trucking Industry Contributions

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Des Moines Register said in a copyrighted story today that the nation's trucking industry has totaled at least $29,000 the past two years in campaign contributions to key members of congressional committees.

Nick Kotz, Pulitzer prize winning reporter in the newspaper's Washington bureau, said records of the clerk of the House of Representatives reveal that in the House Public Works Committee, 11 of 13 ranking Democrats received contributions of from $500 to $2,000.

The Register story said second ranking and third ranking Republicans also received contributions. It said sizable contributions have been given members of the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee.

All the congressional committees are involved in a trucker-backed bill to permit larger trucks on the interstate highway system, the newspaper said.

Kotz wrote that the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee have not acted on a bill opposed by truckers which would increase the highway use tax for diesel fuel vehicles.

"The Johnson administration originally called for passage of this bill to help finance repairs and new construction, which will be required by permitting wider, heavier and longer trucks on the nation's highways," he wrote.

The Register said other contributions have been given members of the Senate Commerce Committee and House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committees.

"Over-all, the truckers campaign fund committee has distributed at least $83,000 the last two years, with almost all going to members of Congress on those committees of special concern to the trucking industry," the story said.

House Public Works Committee Chairman George Fallon, D-Md., received $1,000 and subcommittee chairman John C. Kluczyński, D-Ill., who introduced the bill, $3,000, Kotz wrote.

Other campaign contributions to Public Works Committee members included $1,000 each to Reps. John Blatnik, D-Minn., and William H. Harsha, R-Ohio; $1,000 to Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, in 1966 and $2,000 to Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., the story said.

Another contribution, the newspaper reported, was $2,375 to Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., in April of this year. Monroney is a member of the Senate appropriations subcommittee on public works, the story said.

Additional Democrats on the House Public Works Committee who received $500 campaign contributions, as reported by Kotz, were Robert E. Jones, Alabama; James Wright, Texas; Kenneth Gray, Illinois; Frank

Clark, Pennsylvania; Harold Johnson, California; W. J. Bryan Dorn, South Carolina; Arnold Olsen, Montana; Ray Robert, Texas, and James Kee, West Virginia.

Among Republican members of the Public Works Committee reported to have received $500 campaign contributions were James Grover, New York; Roger Zion, Indiana; Charlotte Reid, Illinois, and Charles Hallock, Indiana.

Senate Public Works Committee $1,000 campaign contribution recipients were Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and J. Caleb Boggs, R-Dea., Kotz wrote.

Czechs Confident of Win In Talks with Soviet Union

PRAGUE (AP) — The apparent isolation of the Kremlin and its hard-line allies in the dispute with the new reformist leaders of Czechoslovakia's Communist party is one of the chief reasons why the men in Prague are confident that they won't have to change course.

With the Communist world congress scheduled in Moscow for November, a congress that the Soviets have maneuvered for several years to arrange, the Czechoslovak leaders think the men in Moscow are not likely to get too tough with them.

In addition to Romania and Yugoslavia, virtually all West European Communist parties are siding with Prague. The West German party is believed to be the sole exception, but this counts for little since it is controlled by the East Germans.

Even the Spanish Communists, who are heavily dependent on Moscow's support, have reminded the Russians of Lenin's dictum that Socialist revolutions must not necessarily all follow one pattern. And the Hungarians, although they signed the Warsaw letter denouncing Prague's liberalization drive, are known to be only lukewarm in their opposition.

The Russians have maneuvered themselves into a "disastrous plight," one source commented. They are bound to lose face, no matter what they do. But the Czechoslovak leaders are anything but gleeful about this.

"The most important task we face right now is to pave the way for the Russians to get out of this," one Czechoslovak party analyst said.

The fact that the Soviet politburo agreed to meet the Czechoslovak leadership, and in Czechoslovakia, is seen here as a shift in Moscow's tactics that may signal a change in strategy, too.

In contrast to the Warsaw meeting of the orthodox parties, the Czechoslovak party is no longer an accused facing condemnation in absentia.

No one in Prague expects swift understanding in the Soviet-Czechoslovak talks, which are expected to begin early next week. But it is believed the meeting may produce more than a restating of positions.

Phone Listing Deadline Near

Deadline for making changes of listings in the 1968 telephone directory is Aug. 2, according to General Telephone Company.

Keith Wagner, district commercial manager, said customers should report any corrections in their phone listings or change of address planned before Sept. 30, to the company's Circleville business office no later than Aug. 2.

Wagner said this will affect any person or business that plans to move or install a telephone before the directory is published. "If we know of changes in advance, we can make sure the customer's name, address and correct phone number are listed in the new directory."

The manager said the 1968 directory is being compiled and will be delivered in September. Other communities listed in the book with Circleville which are affected include Ashville, Laurelville and Williamsport.

Steel Talk Nerve War Continues

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The traditional last-minute war of nerves was in full swing today as the steel labor negotiations moved into the final week.

If no sign of a settlement surfaces in the next few days, the nation's big mills will have to begin the slow and delicate process of closing down. It takes two days or longer to close a steel mill.

There is no public word on whether the industry has made a firm offer to the United Steelworkers Union on its top priority demands for wages, pensions, vacations, unemployment insurance and cost of living scales.

Some local union presidents already have scheduled strategy sessions to decide who will be allowed in the mills for maintenance if there is a strike at midnight next Wednesday.

I. W. Abel, president of the union, said two weeks ago he expected the bargaining to go to the wire as always. But the big difference this year is the lack of any information on what's going on in the top negotiations.

"I've gotten so I hate to call my office," said the president of a big local in Indiana. "I haven't got anything to tell them. We're just here. We don't know what's going on."

Abel, commenting Wednesday on the rank and file's 95 per cent strike vote, told the industry to give prompt consideration to the needs of the steel workers.

But he was unavailable for elaboration on his printed statement.

Steel Talk Nerve War Continues

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The traditional last-minute war of nerves was in full swing today as the steel labor negotiations moved into the final week.

If no sign of a settlement surfaces in the next few days, the nation's big mills will have to begin the slow and delicate process of closing down. It takes two days or longer to close a steel mill.

There is no public word on whether the industry has made a firm offer to the United Steelworkers Union on its top priority demands for wages, pensions, vacations, unemployment insurance and cost of living scales.

Some local union presidents already have scheduled strategy sessions to decide who will be allowed in the mills for maintenance if there is a strike at midnight next Wednesday.

I. W. Abel, president of the union, said two weeks ago he expected the bargaining to go to the wire as always. But the big difference this year is the lack of any information on what's going on in the top negotiations.

"I've gotten so I hate to call my office," said the president of a big local in Indiana. "I haven't got anything to tell them. We're just here. We don't know what's going on."

Abel, commenting Wednesday on the rank and file's 95 per cent strike vote, told the industry to give prompt consideration to the needs of the steel workers.

But he was unavailable for elaboration on his printed statement.

Walter Brennan 74 Wednesday

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Walter Brennan may have looked 74 in movies a decade or two past, but he didn't make it until Wednesday.

His son, Andrew, 45, took the busy character actor to Paramount Studios for a surprise birthday party with friends.

Brennan resisted the 19-mile trip on his day off from filming "The Guns of Will Sonnett" television series in which he stars. But he finally went.

"I feel just the same as I did on my 70th birthday," joked the only man ever to win three Academy Awards for best supporting roles.

sponse to a challenge by Stokes who met with 109 Negro leaders Wednesday.

"I challenged them as to what the Negro community itself would do about the problem," he said. There were some 500 Negro leaders and about 100 Negro police in Glenville Wednesday night, urging residents to go home and curtailing minor outbreaks of looting.

Three white policemen and seven Negro civilians were killed in Tuesday night's exchange of gunfire. A 10th victim was identified by police Wednesday night as a looter shot by a policeman.

The victim, Donald Crim, was at first thought to be the 11th person killed in the violence but it was discovered his name had erroneously been placed on the casualty list twice with two different spellings.

Ten police and nine other persons were either wounded by gunfire or injured in the stoning, burning and looting that caused an estimated $1.5 million in damages in the Glenville neighborhood.

Police investigators continued probing the deadly uprising and the background of the Negro militants who Mayor Stokes said were responsible for the killings.

Ahmed Fred Evans, a black nationalist, was being held for the second day without charge as police investigated his role. Evans surrendered to police Tuesday and was quoted by officers as saying he led 17 men in the bloody attack.

Evans was told by police that two snipers were believed dead. "They died for a worthy cause," Evans was quoted as saying.

Police said Evans surrendered and told them, "If my carbine hadn't jammed, I would have killed you. You police have bothered us too long."

Evans, an astrologer who favors African garb, has conferred with Stokes on several occasions. The mayor described him as having a "black nationalist viewpoint."

House Public Works Committee Chairman George Fallon, D-Md., received $1,000 and subcommittee chairman John C. Kluczynski, D-Ill., who introduced the bill, $3,000, Kotz wrote.

Other campaign contributions to Public Works Committee members included $1,000 each to Reps. John Blatnik, D-Minn., and William H. Harsha, R-Ohio; $1,000 to Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, in 1966 and $2,000 to Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., the story said.

Another contribution, the newspaper reported, was $2,375 to Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., in April of this year.

Monroney is a member of the Senate appropriations subcommittee on public works, the story said.

Additional Democrats on the House Public Works Committee who received $500 campaign contributions, as reported by Kotz, were Robert E. Jones, Alabama; James Wright, Texas; Kenneth Gray, Illinois; Frank

Clark, Pennsylvania; Harold Johnson, California; W. J. Bryan Dorn, South Carolina; Arnold Olsen, Montana; Ray Robert, Texas, and James Kee, West Virginia.

Among Republican members of the Public Works Committee reported to have received $500 campaign contributions were James Grover, New York; Roger Zion, Indiana; Charlotte Reid, Illinois, and Charles Halleck, Indiana.

Senate Public Works Committee $1,000 campaign contribution recipients were Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., Kotz wrote.

Disclose Trucking Industry Contributions

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Des Moines Register said in a copyrighted story today that the nation's trucking industry has totaled at least $29,000 the past two years in campaign contributions to key members of congressional committees.

Nick Kotz, Pulitzer prize-winning reporter in the newspaper's Washington bureau, said records of the clerk of the House of Representatives reveal that in the House Public Works Committee, 11 of 13 ranking Democrats received contributions of from $500 to $3,000.

The Register story said second ranking and third ranking Republicans also received contributions. It said sizable contributions have been given members of the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee.

All the congressional committees are involved in a trucker-backed bill to permit larger trucks on the interstate highway system, the newspaper said.

Kotz wrote that the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee have not acted on a bill opposed by truckers which would increase the highway use tax for diesel fuel vehicles.

"The Johnson administration originally called for passage of this bill to help finance repairs and new construction, which will be required by permitting wider, heavier and longer trucks on the nation's highways," he wrote.

The Register said other contributions have been given members of the Senate Commerce Committee and House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committees.

"Over-all, the truckers campaign fund committee has distributed at least $83,000 the last two years, with almost all going to members of Congress on those committees of special concern to the trucking industry," the story said.

House Public Works Committee Chairman George Fallon, D-Md., received $1,000 and subcommittee chairman John C. Kluczynski, D-Ill., who introduced the bill, $3,000, Kotz wrote.

Other campaign contributions to Public Works Committee members included $1,000 each

Czechs Confident of Win In Talks with Soviet Union

PRAGUE (AP) — The apparent isolation of the Kremlin and its hard-line allies in the dispute with the new reformist leaders of Czechoslovakia's Communist party is one of the chief reasons why the men in Prague are confident that they won't have to change course.

With the Communist world congress scheduled in Moscow for November, a congress that the Soviets have maneuvered for several years to arrange, the Czechoslovak leaders think the men in Moscow are not likely to get too tough with them.

In addition to Romania and Yugoslavia, virtually all West European Communist parties are siding with Prague. The West German party is believed to be the sole exception, but this counts for little since it is controlled by the East Germans.

Even the Spanish Communists, who are heavily dependent on Moscow's support, have reminded the Russians of Lenin's dictum that Socialist revolutions must not necessarily all follow one pattern. And the Hungarians, although they signed the Warsaw letter denouncing Prague's liberalization drive, are known to be only lukewarm in their opposition.

The Russians have maneuvered themselves into a "disastrous plight," one source commented. They are bound to lose face, no matter what they do. But the Czechoslovak leaders are anything but gleeful about this.

"The most important task we face right now is to pave the way for the Russians to get out of this," one Czechoslovak party analyst said.

The fact that the Soviet politburo agreed to meet the Czechoslovak leadership, and in Czechoslovakia, is seen here as a shift in Moscow's tactics that may signal a change in strategy, too.

In contrast to the Warsaw meeting of the orthodox parties, the Czechoslovak party is no longer an accused facing condemnation in absentia.

No one in Prague expects swift understanding in the Soviet-Czechoslovak talks, which are expected to begin early next week. But it is believed the meeting may produce more than a restating of positions.

Arrest Man For Carrying Guns, Ammo

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A 27-year-old federal program worker is free in his own recognition after his arrest for boarding a Mohawk Airlines plane armed with three guns, two knives, ammunition and two cap pistols.

Hans Klint of Syracuse, who was to begin lecturing next week at an Upward Bound program at Utica College, was arrested by the FBI Tuesday as he boarded a Boston-bound airliner at Hancock Field.

The FBI said Klint carried a case containing a double-barreled shotgun, a .30-caliber rifle with a scope, a gas pellet gun, two knives, the ammunition and the pistols.

The arrests came, a bureau spokesman said, after agents received an anonymous phone call saying that a plane was to be hijacked.

Klint was freed pending a hearing by U.S. Commissioner Edward M. Conan. He was charged with carrying dangerous and deadly weapons aboard a plane, a felony.

A spokesman at Utica College said Klint had been a program coordinator in the federal-funded program last summer and was to have lectured there this year.

privet hedge and two high school boys spent a great part of a day trimming it. A master of the art could not have done it any better.

Mrs. Jim Ullman had a bright fuchsia dress on the other evening using her cream color house for an interesting backdrop as she weeded her red geraniums and evergreens.

The Woodrow Carter's of 665 Garden Parkway in Garden City have plantings of red and white geraniums, petunias and roses. The green low foliage of the plants seemed to shine in the bright sun light of mid-afternoon.

The yard is a symphony of greens and the trees are both very old and some with not to very many years of growth form a perfect setting for the white brick, low built home of the William K. Weilers on 832 Pershing Drive.

North Court Street homes prove to be a never ending source of quick snapshots if we use our eyes as a lens of a good camera. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ritter have tall stately red gladioli around their front porch.

Doctor and Mrs. E. Hedges at 980 North Court Street have pink geraniums in front of the office. They put in a new lawn this summer.

Right across the street at 106 Park St. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnhill have their corner garden full of interesting blooms.

The one thing I just dislike doing is breaking a bubble of hope in a child. There was a call from Mrs. Wynkoop about her boys' white zinnia. I just knew that the hope had been that it was what horticulturists have been looking for, for a long time. Talking to and reading all the columnists I can, it is one question that seems to always arise, sometimes in the article or conversation. It is a pure white Marigold that has eluded botanists for a long time.

This past month and the coming months hope to visit and report on unique, interesting gardens. This week I spent an afternoon in a very unique garden with Mrs. Bernard Savey at 930 Circle Drive.

The side entrance is "Blue Ribbon" with its bright pink geranium (MMC Landy) contrasted by the deep purple of the Zebrina pendula. Clematis trellises on three sides of the garage foretell of future summers of color. The large lot is completely fenced in to keep in their own little French Poodle "Junie," and to keep out all other animals that might wander into the garden. Framing the back of the home is a great variety of vegetation. Tree peonies of yellow, red, purple, and white have followed them from their former home. Hesperulae Parviflora meaning (Rocket) yucca, a pink one planted amongst hen and chickens, is different and very interesting planting. Bayberry, holly, so shiny, made me a little sad as I had left a holly plant at the other house. It is so hard to grow and transplanted it takes years to recover.

Evergreens, lilacs, minosa, pines, firs, maples, all line the fence. The immediate back yard is velvety green grass and a few trees are planted to give variety. One outstanding and very interesting to me was the apple tree (White Angel) full of the tiniest green apples. An apricot tree shares the patio with numerous other plants.

Passing thru the arbor with its roses climbing takes one into a completely challenging world. The hours, material, dirt, dreams are all there to dazzle one's realization of what is and has been done on a city lot. A garden of wild flowers with its guardian Saint Frances stands among sassafras trees under which ginger and a great many other flowers will send up aromatic smells when it is finished. Iris stand tall and straight ready to be cut down when it is time. Forty new iris were planted this year.

The paths of wood chips were lined with alyssum of white summer snow, argemone, prickly poppies, in white and a rarer yellow foxglove tammerack shared a spot with hoarhound, something so few of us plant. Pink double hollyhocks, Jewel of Tibet, snaps, Bells of Ireland, corkscrew miller, oriental poppies (Mrs. Savey's favorite) share space with red leaf plum, golden rain tree, smoke trees and bush peonies.

Day lilies were bought from Handy Hatfield. Jack in the beanstalk, cucumbers and the gourds showed signs of needing rain very badly. There were lace vines, echium in pink, purple, blue, and white which Elizabeth Jones and I both fell in love with on sight. Gladioli, cosmos, asters, flowering kale can be ordered from Parks Seed Company Greenwood, South Carolina. There were pinks, phlox, golden Ageratum houstonianum, delphinium, tulips, daffodils, a large bed of imperial lilies, forgetmenots, mums, dahlias along with a Norway blue pine brought back by the Saveys. Ribbon grass, Blue beard (truly blue), Mungo pines, a fantail willow, asparagus, and several stalks of cane from a yard in Oklahoma. French lilac, zinnias, daisy's and a great many more plants that I am sure escaped me are in that "garden of variety" which is the name I gave this ever changing challenge.

The many calls I received about hen and chickens blooming will answer this way. All I can tell you is what I have been able to read and ask about them. It is the rooster that blooms and in red, pink, yellow and white. That particular rosette is the only one that dies, not the whole plant. It is so different from the run of the mill plants that watching them grow from that unusual long stem before breaking out into bloom that one should be tempted to share them with as many friends as you can.

See you at the Fair next week!

Report Fortas' Attitude Hurts Confirmation Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Testimony during Senate committee hearings into President Johnson's Supreme Court appointments has hurt chances that Abe Fortas will be confirmed as chief justice, according to a leading supporter of the nomination.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., says opponents of the nominations picked up much ammunition during Senate Judiciary Committee hearings into the naming of Fortas, now an associate justice, to succeed retiring Earl Warren.

Hart said that Fortas' refusal to answer questions about his decisions, his acknowledged participation in White House conferences since becoming a member of the court, and testimony attacking his rulings in obscenity cases all provide grist for the opposition.

But he, nonetheless, said he stood by his earlier prediction that the committee would recommend Senate confirmation by a 10-6 margin at worst and possibly by a vote of 12-4.

What happens in the Senate, Hart said, will depend in part on whether Republican opponents decide that fighting his appointment will be "More of a plus than a minus for them political-ly."

The committee, called into closed session today, seems unlikely to finish its hearings in time for the full Senate to act before September on the nominations, which includes the appointment of federal Judge Homer Thornberry to be an associate justice.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he never predicts what the committee may do, but told newsmen he could not conceive of the Fortas nomination being brought up in the Senate before September.

Congress is expected to recess at the end of next week until after Labor Day because of the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

The committee concluded nine days of public hearings Tuesday on a sensational note when Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., displayed magazines with pictures of nude men and women in suggestive poses and said that distribution of such "hard-core pornography" has become much worse since Fortas has been a Supreme Court justice in 1965.

The final witness was Deputy Atty. Gen. Warren Christopher, who was called for questioning about a Justice Department memorandum reviewing Fortas' service on the Supreme Court and crediting him with "an unusual degree of judicial restraint."

Hart said he had requested the department to prepare the memorandum, but Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., called it an attempt at "propagandizing the committee."

Garden Gossip and Helpful Hints

By MRS. E. P. HANSON
'The Lady by the Lake'

Here we are with the last column in July. The Pickaway County Fair time is upon us and we do hope all of you garden and flower fanciers are all ready and raring to go. Let's make it a big year for garden enthusiasts and their followers.

One of the most difficult jobs in a well kept yard is trimming a hedge even and right in proportion. At the Donald E. Woodward home at the edge of town on Route 3, there is a

Arrest Man For Carrying Guns, Ammo

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A 27-year-old federal program worker is free in his own recognition after his arrest for boarding a Mohawk Airlines plane armed with three guns, two knives, ammunition and two cap pistols.

Hans Klint of Syracuse, who was to begin lecturing next week at an Upward Bound program at Utica College, was arrested by the FBI Tuesday as he boarded a Boston-bound airliner at Hancock Field.

The FBI said Klint carried a case containing a double-barreled shotgun, a .30-caliber rifle with a scope, a gas pellet gun, two knives, the ammunition and the pistols.

The arrests came, a bureau spokesman said, after agents received an anonymous phone call saying that a plane was to be hijacked.

Klint was freed pending a hearing by U.S. Commissioner Edward M. Conan. He was charged with carrying dangerous and deadly weapons aboard a plane, a felony.

A spokesman at Utica College said Klint had been a program coordinator in the federal-funded program last summer and was to have lectured there this year.

privet hedge and two high school boys spent a great part of a day trimming it. A master of the art could not have done it any better.

Mrs. Jim Ullman had a bright fuchsia dress on the other evening using her cream color house for an interesting backdrop as she weeded her red geraniums and evergreens.

The Woodrow Carter's of 665 Garden Parkway in Garden City have plantings of red and white geraniums, petunias and roses. The green low foliage of the plants seemed to shine in the bright sun light of mid-afternoon.

The yard is a symphony of greens and the trees are both very old and some with not very many years of growth form a perfect setting for the white brick, low built home of the William K. Weiders on 832 Pershing Drive.

North Court Street homes prove to be a never ending source of quick snapshots if we use our eyes as a lens of a good camera. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ritter have tall stately red gladioli around their front porch.

Doctor and Mrs. E. Hedges at 980 North Court Street have pink geraniums in front of the office. They put in a new lawn this summer.

Right across the street at 106 Park St. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnhill have their corner garden full of interesting blooms.

The one thing I just dislike doing is breaking a bubble of hope in a child. There was a call from Mrs. Wynkoop about her boys' white zinnia. I just knew that the hope had been that it was what horticulturists have been looking for, for a long time. Talking to and reading all the columnists I can, it is one question that seems to always arise, sometimes in the article or conversation. It is a pure white Marigold that has eluded botanists for a long time.

This past month and the coming months hope to visit and report on unique, interesting gardens. This week I spent an afternoon in a very unique garden with Mrs. Bernard Savey at 930 Circle Drive.

The side entrance is 'Blue Ribbon' with its bright pink geranium (MMC Landy) contrasted by the deep purple of the Zebrina pendula. Clematis trellises on three sides of the garage foretell of future summers of color. The large lot is completely fenced in to keep in their own little French Poodle 'Junie,' and to keep out all other animals that might wander into the garden. Framing the back of the home is a great variety of vegetation.

Tree peonies of yellow, red, purple, and white have followed them from their former home. Hesperulae Parviflora meaning (Rocket) yucca, a pink one planted amongst hen and chickens, is different and very interesting planting. Bayberry, holly, so shiny, made me a little sad as I had left a holly plant at the other house. It is so hard to grow and transplanted it takes years to recover.

Evergreens, lilacs, minosa, pines, firs, maples, all line the fence. The immediate back yard is velvety green grass and a few trees are planted to give variety. One outstanding and very interesting to me was the apple tree (White Angel) full of the tiniest green apples. An apricot tree shares the patio with numerous other plants.

Passing thru the arbor with its roses climbing takes one into a completely challenging world. The hours, material, dirt, dreams are all there to dazzle one's realization of what is and has been done on a city lot. A garden of wild flowers with its guardian Saint Frances stands among sassafras trees under which ginger and a great many other flowers will send up aromatic smells when it is finished. Iris stand tall and straight ready to be cut down when it is time. Forty new iris were planted this year.

The paths of wood chips were lined with alyssum of white summer snow, argemone, prickly poppies, in white and a rarer yellow foxglove tamarack shared a spot with hoarhound, something so few of us plant. Pink double hollyhocks, Jewel of Tibet, snaps, Bells of Ireland, corkscrew miller, oriental poppies (Mrs. Savey's favorite) share space with red leaf plum, golden rain tree, smoke trees and bush peonies.

Day lilies were bought from Handy Hatfield. Jack in the beanstalk, cucumbers and the gourds showed signs of needing rain very badly. There were lace vines, echium in pink, purple, blue, and white which Elizabeth Jones and I both fell in love with on sight. Gladioli, cosmos, asters, flowering kale can be ordered from Parks Seed Company Greenwood, South Carolina. There were pinks, phlox, golden Ageratum houstonianum, delphinium, tulips, daffodils, a large bed of imperial lilies, forgetmenots, mums, dahlias along with a Norway blue pine brought back by the Saveys. Ribbon grass, Blue - beard (truly blue), Mungo pines, a fantail willow, asparagus, and several stalks of cane from a yard in Oklahoma. French lilac, zinnias, daisies and a great many more plants that I am sure escaped me are in that "garden of variety" which is the name I gave this ever changing challenge.

The many calls I received about hen and chickens blooming will answer this way. All I can tell you is what I have been able to read and ask about them. It is the rooster that blooms and in red, pink, yellow and white. That particular rosette is the only one that dies, not the whole plant. It is so different from the run of the mill plants that watching them grow from that unusual long stem before breaking out into bloom that one should be tempted to share them with as many friends as you can.

See you at the Fair next week!

Report Fortas' Attitude Hurts Confirmation Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Testimony during Senate committee hearings into President Johnson's Supreme Court appointments has hurt chances that Abe Fortas will be confirmed as chief justice, according to a leading supporter of the nomination.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., says opponents of the nominations picked up much ammunition during Senate Judiciary Committee hearings into the naming of Fortas, now an associate justice, to succeed retiring Earl Warren.

Hart said that Fortas' refusal to answer questions about his decisions, his acknowledged participation in White House conferences since becoming a member of the court, and testimony attacking his rulings in obscenity cases all provide grist for the opposition.

But he, nonetheless, said he stood by his earlier prediction that the committee would recommend Senate confirmation by a 10-6 margin at worst and possibly by a vote of 12-4.

What happens in the Senate, Hart said, will depend in part on whether Republican opponents decide that fighting his appointment will be "More of a plus than a minus for them politically."

The committee, called into closed session today, seems unlikely to finish its hearings in time for the full Senate to act before September on the nominations, which includes the appointment of federal Judge Homer Thornberry to be an associate justice.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he never predicts what the committee may do, but told newsmen he could not conceive of the Fortas nomination being brought up in the Senate before September.

Congress is expected to recess at the end of next week until after Labor Day because of the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

The committee concluded nine days of public hearings Tuesday on a sensational note when Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., displayed magazines with pictures of nude men and women in suggestive poses and said that distribution of such "hard-core pornography" has become much worse since Fortas has been a Supreme Court justice in 1965.

The final witness was Deputy Atty. Gen. Warren Christopher, who was called for questioning about a Justice Department memorandum reviewing Fortas' service on the Supreme Court and crediting him with "an unusual degree of judicial restraint."

Hart said he had requested the department to prepare the memorandum, but Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., called it an attempt at "propagandizing the committee."

Postal Cuts

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson is following the time-honored script of government officials when their agencies face a cut in unbridled spending.

Unless Congress reneges on its edict ordering personnel reductions in his department as in others, Mr. Watson threatens to eliminate Saturday deliveries and window service, to reduce parcel post deliveries to five days a week and to abandon an array of third and fourth class post offices.

The congressional order, applying to all executive agencies was about the only solace the taxpayer got with the 10 percent surcharge in his income tax.

How effective this reduction order will be is conjectural, since federal payroll slashes in 1967 were more than nullified by additional hirings, mostly in defense, bringing the year - end total of federal employees to near three million.

Of course citizens are also paying those postal rate increases imposed in January and thus might reasonably anticipate at least a maintenance of existing service.

But as long as the post office fails to operate at standards of efficiency required of private industry, higher rates and less service will be as certain as taxes.

Clearing the Aisles

The Democratic national convention may be moved out of Chicago if a strike of communications workers is not settled. Installation of electrical equipment without which the convention cannot be televised has been delayed.

Would the absence of a televised national convention rate as a national deprivation? What patient and patriotic citizen hasn't seen and heard Arizona yielding to Iowa, the temporary chairman yielding to the permanent chairman, followed by bedraggled demonstrations, all designed to prolong for five days — for the benefit of bars and innkeepers — a convention that could be wrapped up in two?

Still if it isn't Chicago it will be somewhere else, probably Miami Beach where the Republicans, if there's no strike there, will show the country what happens to Nixon, Rockefeller or Reagan, as the case may be—provided the sergeant-at-arms clears the aisles.

Whither Pompidou?

There can be no questioning Couve de Murville's credentials as premier of France. His diplomatic skill helped France at times when Charles de Gaulle's arrogance threatened irreparable breaches. He also rallied the franc in his brief tenure as finance minister.

The haunting question in the succession is what may become of Georges Pompidou, who was steadying hand that guided France through the turmoil of student rebellion and general strikes. Is Mr. Pompidou's present banishment as premier punishment for saving the general and country?

Some who know both men are convinced this is the case. Others believe they read into Mr. de Gaulle's statements evidence of a desire to have Pompidou succeed him as president when the decision to step down arrives, perhaps this fall.

It would be a mark of shame if, when that event occurs, Pompidou is left unwarded. For it would be the price of acting boldly for his country in time of crisis—perhaps too strongly for the singularity of Charles de Gaulle.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WHEN A NEWLY rich speculator took up golf, he was stuck, of course, with a lot of expensive equipment, some of which was even necessary. Included was a set of gleaming new personalized clubs. A friend commented, "I take it for granted they're a balanced set." "It must be," decided the novice. "When I stand up the bag they don't fall down."

At a girl's college in Missouri some years ago, dates were permitted only on Friday and Saturday nights, but one brash young suitor, sorely smitten by Miss Susan Swanson, popped up on Tuesday, saying it was imperative that he see Miss Swanson immediately. "You must know our rules," the Dean reprimanded him. "What's this great emergency?" "I can't even tell you," said the suitor. "You see, I want to surprise her. I'm her brother."

"She'll be surprised, I reckon," said the Dean. "But how do you think I feel? I'm her mother!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband and I have annual checkups and our health has always been considered by our doctor as good. We enjoy sports, work hard, and our diet consists of plenty of steaks, fruits, vegetables and green salads. Yet we constantly seem to have colds, flu, sore throats. What would be the reason for our poor record when we obviously should be in good health?

Mrs. R.E.C., Ohio

Dear Mrs. C.: I too, would be annoyed if I were "bugged" by such annoying conditions if I ate as well, worked as well and had no major illnesses.

Unfortunately, germs, bacteria of all kinds and viruses have no respect for people, regardless of social, intellectual and cultural attainment. Somehow they enjoy distributing themselves impartially amongst everybody.

It must be confessed that in a world that soon will send a man to the moon, jet propel hundreds of humans from New York to California in an hour, and transplant hearts and other organs, that it is distressing we still have not found adequate protection against the causes of the common cold. This idea reduces our vanity to nothing but must be faced as the truth. Actually, colds are passed from people to people at work and at play. The others who generously give their bugs to you may not even be bothered by colds as you are.

I don't believe that a family should take it as a personal insult if they are laid low for a few days by the flu and are spared really serious disorders.

You did not mention whether or not there are small children in the household. They frequently introduce new germs that soon make the rounds of everyone in the family. You will find that before long the frequency and severity of these colds will disappear if you maintain the excellence of your health record.

I have just received a letter from my brother telling me of a sudden illness. His legs suddenly became numb and he cannot move them. He has been told that he has Guillain-Barre condition. He is sixty-seven years-old and has always been in good health. I have never heard of it. Can you explain it and tell me if there is a cure?

Dear Mrs. U.: This strange and rare condition was first described by the two doctors whose names are associated with it. Although the cause is not known it is suspected that an unknown virus may be responsible for the loss of sensation and inability to move the hands or legs.

I answer this letter, particularly, because I want to assure readers there are hundreds of conditions that present similar symptoms which are temporary and are not of concern to doctors.

The Guillain-Barre disorder, or syndrome, affects muscles and nerves and is diagnosed by the study of the spinal fluid and detailed examination by a neurologist.

There are many conditions which resemble this one that may, in an elderly person, be due to impairment of the circulation of blood. A vast group of other conditions are ruled out before this diagnosis is definitely established. When once it is, the disease is known to be self-limited and recovery takes place within a few weeks or a few months. When recovery is complete there usually are no aftereffects of this nerve condition.

Indian Railways Lose

NEW DELHI (AP) — Ticketless travel costs the Indian railways rupees 100 million ($13.3 million) a year, an official spokesman said.

The railways is the largest government - operated undertaking, employing more than one million men.

It suffered a further loss of rupees 34 million ($4.5 million) in the past year due to accidents, damage during riots and in paying compensation to thefts of booked consignments.

The Business World

By JACK LEFFLER (For John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to hunt polar bear in Alaska, entertain your mother-in-law at a Paris restaurant, rent a houseboat for a Mississippi cruise, hire a big-name orchestra for your daughter's wedding reception—and charge it?

Al, you need is a credit card. These are some of the more bizarre ways you can use a credit card but their purchasing power covers the whole gamut of goods and services.

It's estimated that Americans are carrying 200 million credit cards and using them to spend around $50 billion a year.

As a result of the proliferation of credit cards, there has been widespread speculation about the possibilities of a checkless, cashless society in the future.

Some bankers envision a nationwide system in which a single identification card would be used in place of all checks and almost all cash.

But American Express, a big name in the credit card industry, says, "The single-card system couldn't be further from reality today. The most striking feature of our present system of transferring money is the multiplicity of credit cards."

Credit cards as we know them today were pioneered in 1950 by Diners' Club, which was created with 200 members, an initial investment of $18,000 and a handful of restaurants in the New York City area. Within a year it had grown to 10,000 members who could charge at more than 1,000 establishments.

Credit cards now fall into three categories:

—Travel and entertainment. Operators in this field are American Express, Diners' Club and Carte Blanche. These cards are held primarily by business and professional men.

—Private label. Oil companies, airlines, hotels, car rental companies and department stores offer these cards primarily to promote their services or products.

—Revolving credit cards. These cards, largely regional or local in nature, are issued mainly by banks and financial organizations and are meant primarily for use by housewives for shopping.

The credit card companies derive their revenue from discounts from establishments which accept the cards in lieu of cash and from membership fees.

Some credit card practices have come in for criticism recently, mainly because of the mailing of unsolicited cards by banks and some others in the revolving credit field.

South Lures Negroes Back

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

President Johnson's National Commission on Urban Problems, which is headed by former Senator Paul Douglas, has come up with a dire prediction for 1985. By that time, so the commission says, the Negroes will be crammed into a number of practically all-black cities while the suburbs, more exclusive than ever, will have expanded by taking in some fifty-four million white refugees from urban core areas.

So, in the commission's little game of extrapolation of current trends, we are doomed to go the way of apartheid South Africa. The only trouble with this is that it ignores the Emersonian principle of compensation. Jack's beanstalk can grow taller, but it never manages to reach the sky, and it is not every cat that grows up to be a tiger.

Indeed, the Negro is already starting to reverse the current that has been flowing from southern country districts to northern slums. The other day Governor Robert E. McNair of South Carolina came to New York City to meet with scores of industrialists who have been opening new plants in his home state. The most startling thing he had to say was that, in 1967 and 1968, the "out-migration" of Negroes from South Carolina has finally been balanced by an "immigration" that has been coming home from northern slum areas to take advantage of local Carolina job opportunities.

This South Carolina story, as the governor outlined it, is an exciting one. He told the industrialists about the workings of his state "labor-oriented" training program which, at no cost to industrialists, takes school drop-outs and "functional illiterates" and teaches them not only to make up their reading deficiencies but to do specific jobs at specific machines. According to the governor, the South Carolina training program can add the equivalent of two school grades to a drop-out's education while giving him the vocational know-how to earn $2.65 an hour at a sophisticated machine.

"We have recently put 41,300 people into the labor market," said Governor McNair. Many of these have taken high school diplomas in their dropout training, and one in six of the diplomas has gone to an adult. The average age of the new trainees going back to high school while taking vocational training, said the governor, is twenty-eight years — which would indicate that many beneficiaries of the program are middle-aged.

A Southern governor making a pitch for his state might be suspected of taking a wildly optimistic approach. But, according to Beverly Warren, a retired major general who is a vice president of the Lycoming Division of Avco Corporation, the South Carolina story is not exaggerated. Avco's Lycoming unit opened a plant in South Carolina a year-and-one-half ago. Its problem was to get into needed production within sixty days. The South Carolina State development board, says General Warren, actually went out and bought for training purposes the type of machine tool which Lycoming production requires. It delivered two thousand trained employees by start-up day. Now Lycoming is asking for two thousand more. The productivity of the new workers, says the general, is fantastic. They still believe in giving eight hours work for eight hours pay. This may be taken as a reflection on the Yankee employees who work for Avco-Lycoming in Stratford, Connecticut, though General Warren might not care to put it that way. Connecticut's loss is lessening. President Johnson's, of course, South Carolina's son's National Commission on — and the southern Negroes' Urban Problems should take note.

Textiles and chemicals (used in synthetic fabrics) have always been a South Carolina specialty, but much of the state's new industrial growth has been in metal-working. The Congaree Iron and Steel Company, the Lycoming Division of Avco, General Electric, the Utica Drop Forge Company, and other "hard" industrial concerns are joining Du Pont, Allied Chemical and Dye, the J. P. Stevens Company (thirty-one South Carolina plants), Bowater, and other chemical and textile manufacturers in the move to take advantage of the state's "tailor-made" industrial trainees.

This is good news for South Carolina, but it is even better news for New York City's Harlem, for South Side Chicago, for the "central ward" in Newark, New Jersey, for Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia, and Washington, D.C. It means that the pressure on northern slum living space is lessening. President Johnson's son's National Commission on — and the southern Negroes' Urban Problems should take note.

NEW YORK (AP) — What's the use of being middle-aged if you can't brag about it?

Oddly enough, some people can't. They take their entrance into the middle years of life as a defeat rather than a victory, as a kind of dead end rather than as just another interesting corridor.

Others retreat into pretense and try to hide the fact they are middle-aged. Trying to hide middle age is like trying to smuggle an elephant through a subway turnstile. It isn't an easy thing to do, and it can be very wearing on the spirit.

If you are middle-aged and are trying to disguise it, you must limit your conduct in many careful ways. For example you can't.

If you think things are getting a bit crowded no matter where you go—there's a reason. Latest estimates from Washington is that the world's population is expected to surpass an all-time high of 3.5 billion before the end of this year.

Washington also predicts there'll be an additional billion more people around by 1983. So—you'd better start looking for a parking place—for yourself, not just your car.

Postal Cuts

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson is following the time-honored script of government officials when their agencies face a cut in unbridled spending.

Unless Congress reneges on its edict ordering personnel reductions in his department as in others, Mr. Watson threatens to eliminate Saturday deliveries and window service, to reduce parcel post deliveries to five days a week and to abandon an array of third and fourth class post offices.

The congressional order, applying to all executive agencies was about the only solace the taxpayer got with the 10 percent surcharge in his income tax.

How effective this reduction order will be is conjectural, since federal payroll slashes in 1967 were more than nullified by additional hirings, mostly in defense, bringing the year - end total of federal employees to near three million.

Of course citizens are also paying those postal rate increases imposed in January and thus might reasonably anticipate at least a maintenance of existing service.

But as long as the post office fails to operate at standards of efficiency required of private industry, higher rates and less service will be as certain as taxes.

Clearing the Aisles

The Democratic national convention may be moved out of Chicago if a strike of communications workers is not settled. Installation of electrical equipment without which the convention cannot be televised has been delayed.

Would the absence of a televised national convention rate as a national deprivation? What patient and patriotic citizen hasn't seen and heard Arizona yielding to Iowa, the temporary chairman yielding to the permanent chairman, followed by bedraggled demonstrations, all designed to prolong for five days - for the benefit of bars and innkeepers - a convention that could be wrapped up in two?

Still if it isn't Chicago it will be somewhere else, probably Miami Beach where the Republicans, if there's no strike there, will show the country what happens to Nixon, Rockefeller or Reagan, as the case may be—provided the sergeant-at-arms clears the aisles.

Whither Pompidou?

There can be no questioning Couve de Murville's credentials as premier of France. His diplomatic skill helped France at times when Charles de Gaulle's arrogance threatened irreparable breaches. He also rallied the franc in his brief tenure as finance minister.

The haunting question in the succession is what may become of Georges Pompidou, who was steadying hand that guided France through the turmoil of student rebellion and general strikes. Is Mr. Pompidou's present banishment as premier punishment for saving the general and country? Some who know both men are convinced this is the case. Others believe they read into Mr. de Gaulle's statements evidence of a desire to have Pompidou succeed him as president when the decision to step down arrives, perhaps this fall.

It would be a mark of shame if, when that event occurs, Pompidou is left unrewarded. For it would be the price of acting boldly for his country in time of crisis—perhaps too strongly for the singularity of Charles de Gaulle.

At a girl's college in Missouri some years ago, dates were permitted only on Friday and Saturday nights, but one brash young suitor, sorely smitten by Miss Susan Swanson, popped up on Tuesday, saying it was imperative that he see Miss Swanson immediately. "She'll be surprised, I reckon," said the Dean. "But how do you think I feel? I'm her mother!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband and I have annual checkups and our health has always been considered by our doctor as good. We enjoy sports, work hard, and our diet consists of plenty of steaks, fruits, vegetables and green salads. Yet we constantly seem to have colds, flu, sore throats. What would be the reason for our poor record when we obviously should be in good health?

Mrs. R.E.C., Ohio

Dear Mrs. C.: I too, would be annoyed if I were "bugged" by such annoying conditions if I ate as well, worked as well and had no major illnesses.

Unfortunately, germs, bacteria of all kinds and viruses have no respect for people, regardless of social, intellectual and cultural attainment. Somehow they enjoy distributing themselves impartially amongst everybody.

It must be confessed that in a world that soon will send a man to the moon, jet propel hundreds of humans from New York to California in an hour, and transplant hearts and other organs, that it is distressing we still have not found adequate protection against the causes of the common cold. This idea reduces our vanity to nothing but must be faced as the truth. Actually, colds are passed from people to people at work and at play. The others who generously give their bugs to you may not even be bothered by colds as you are.

I don't believe that a family should take it as a personal insult if they are laid low for a few days by the flu and are spared really serious disorders.

You did not mention whether or not there are small children in the household. They frequently introduce new germs that soon make the rounds of everyone in the family. You will find that before long the frequency and severity of these colds will disappear if you maintain the excellence of your health record.

I have just received a letter from my brother telling me of a sudden illness. His legs suddenly became numb and he cannot move them. He has been told that he has Guillain-Barre

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to hunt polar bear in Alaska, entertain your mother-in-law at a Paris restaurant, rent a houseboat for a Mississippi cruise, hire a big-name orchestra for your daughter's wedding reception—and charge it?

All you need is a credit card. These are some of the more bizarre ways you can use a credit card but their purchasing power covers the whole gamut of goods and services.

It's estimated that Americans are carrying 200 million credit cards and using them to spend around $50 billion a year.

As a result of the proliferation of credit cards, there has been widespread speculation about the possibilities of a checkless, cashless society in the future.

South Africa Now in Throes Of Massive Miniskirt Unrest

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The miniskirt may be passe in some fashion centers of the world, but it still stirs passions in Africa.

"I am aware of the presence of miniskirts among us," said the Swaziland local government minister, Prince Mfanasibili. He had been asked in Parliament what steps the government planned against the wearing of miniskirts by Swazi women.

"I have taken no steps yet to discourage the wearing of miniskirts in Swaziland because I have had no reaction against this fashion from members of the public."

Elsewhere, the reaction has been bitter.

The Malawi News, official organ of President Hastings K. Banda's Malawi Congress party, said: "All we want is the nakedness to stop at once."

"We will not tolerate anyone who comes here to corrupt our girls. Proper dress is necessary for the moral health of the nation."

Miniskirts were outlawed in Malawi four months ago.

Kenya's defense minister, Dr. Njoroge Mungai, said miniskirts, wigs and other mod fashions are an "affront to the dignity and purpose of African society."

Miniskirts have been branded "un-Zambian" in Zambia. Militant youth wing members of the ruling United National Independence party campaigning against the fashion have been known to rip miniskirts from girls in city streets.

Miniskirts were blamed for widespread rioting in Ethiopia last April in which 50 persons were injured, 100 vehicles destroyed and the schools closed for two weeks.

Demonstrations designed to prevent a fashion show by university faculty wives, mostly Americans, sparked the riots. Student dissatisfaction and vague political unrest is believed at the bottom of the miniskirt riots.

Among those left unmoved by miniskirts are clothing manufacturers. One Johannesburg garment maker explained: "The amount of labor time that goes into making a mini is the same as that for an ordinary length garment. The number of operations involved is also the same."

"In theory it should be cheaper to produce a miniskirt because it does require less material, but in fact this just is not the case."

Air Pollution Cost Said $20 Million for Cleanup

By HARRY KRAUSE
Associated Press Writer
IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Air pollution in the tri-state area causes residents to spend more than $20 million a year to keep their households clean, a researcher for the federal government said Wednesday.

The speaker, Richard D. Wilson, told participants at an air pollution abatement conference that the costs could be cut in half with the installation of proper control equipment.

Wilson is in the Socio-Economic Effects section of the National Air Pollution Control administration (NAPCA).

The administration is part of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which is sponsoring a four-day conference here for agencies from West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

The conference started Tuesday. Wilson said his figures were taken only for 40 per cent of the area population that lived along the Ohio River in the Ironton-Ashland-Huntington region. The figures, he said, would be greater for the area's total population of 250,000.

Wilson said more effective control of dirt released into the air would lower the damages to 9.2 million a year.

In other testimony, Dr. C. Wayne Franz, manager of the emergency physician service at an Ashland hospital, said air pollution was one of the principal causes of chronic bronchitis. He also said air pollution caused headaches, dizziness, coughing, blood poisoning, chest pains and vomiting.

Testimony was to continue Wednesday afternoon with a presentation by the Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission and various Kentucky industries in this area.

Paul Duke is blind.

As one of the first sightless people to enter the computer field, the 38-year-old Marine veteran of the Korean War is in San Francisco to receive Saturday the achievement award of the Blinded Veterans' Association.

Back home after being twice wounded and freezing his hands and feet in Korea, Duke was instructing a Marine Corps class in assault demolition at Quantico, Va., in 1951 when tragedy struck. A defective fuse prematurely exploded 125 dynamite caps and destroyed his sight at 21.

"I knew right away this was no completely earth-shaking psychological handicap," Duke said in an interview in San Francisco.

"When I was a kid of 10 in my home town of Binghamton, N.Y., I gained a tremendous respect for Michael Supa, the godfather to two of my uncle's children. Mike, who seems to me like a relative, is a consultant psychologist for a computer manufacturer. He has been blind since he was two."

"Also there's Bob Russell, a Rhodes Scholar, now a professor of English at Franklin-Marshall University at Lancaster, Pa. And he and I used to wrestle at the YMCA in Binghamton. Bob's been blind since he was three."

"Both are well rounded. Both lead normal lives. So there was no question in my mind that I could do something. The question was what."

Hamilton Youth Held in Murder

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A 19-year-old youth sought in the shooting death of his father-in-law gave himself up at the Hamilton police station early today, about four hours after the shooting.

Gordon Lovins, 39, was shot once in the chest with a .22 caliber pistol late Wednesday night at his home just outside Hamilton. Deputies said the son-in-law, Voyd L. Turner, fled on foot after the shooting.

Turner reportedly lived at the Lovins home until a recent break-up with his wife, Patricia, 19.

In 1957, five years after entering Syracuse University, Duke was graduated magna cum laude from the College of Business Administration.

Duke persuaded a computer firm in Boston to give him summer training. Three years later, after graduate studies, he launched his career as a computer analyst.

"The human mind is nothing more than a computer," says Duke whose seeing colleagues relay to him the computer findings on problems related to business efficiency.

South Africa Now in Throes Of Massive Miniskirt Unrest

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The miniskirt may be passe in some fashion centers of the world, but it still stirs passions in Africa.

"I am aware of the presence of miniskirts among us," said the Swaziland local government minister, Prince Mfanasibili. He had been asked in Parliament what steps the government planned against the wearing of miniskirts by Swazi women.

"I have taken no steps yet to discourage the wearing of miniskirts in Swaziland because I have had no reaction against this fashion from members of the public."

Elsewhere, the reaction has been bitter.

NCR Election Handling Hit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Charles W. Whalen, R-Ohio, described Wednesday the National Labor Relations Board's handling of a National Cash Register labor impasse in Dayton as incredible ineptness and unbelievable bungling.

Four different NLRB actions were cited by Whalen in regard to his criticism of the labor dispute.

Whalen said the NLRB:

—Took five months to decide to call a bargaining election.

—Set the dates of the bargaining election three and one-half months after the expiration of the existing contract.

—Miscounted, by its own admission, 100 votes cast during the certification election.

—And, after six months still has not determined the outcome of that election.

Whalen said the failures have precipitated an economic crisis and created serious frustration among 14,000 families in the Dayton area.

gan of President Hastings K. Banda's Malawi Congress party, said: "All we want is the nakedness to stop at once."

"We will not tolerate anyone who comes here to corrupt our girls. Proper dress is necessary for the moral health of the nation."

Miniskirts were outlawed in Malawi four months ago.

Kenya's defense minister, Dr. Njoroge Mungai, said miniskirts, wigs and other mod fashions are an "affront to the dignity and purpose of African society."

Miniskirts have been branded "un-Zambian" in Zambia. Militant youth wing members of the ruling United National Independence party campaigning against the fashion have been known to rip miniskirts from girls in city streets.

Miniskirts were blamed for widespread rioting in Ethiopia last April in which 50 persons were injured, 100 vehicles destroyed and the schools closed for two weeks.

Demonstrations designed to prevent a fashion show by university faculty wives, mostly Americans, sparked the riots. Student dissatisfaction and vague politics, unrest is believed at the bottom of the miniskirt riots.

Among those left unmoved by miniskirts are clothing manufacturers. One Johannesburg garment maker explained: "The amount of labor time that goes into making a mini is the same as that for an ordinary length garment. The number of operations involved is also the same."

"In theory it should be cheaper to produce a miniskirt because it does require less material, but in fact this just is not the case."

Air Pollution Cost Said $20 Million for Cleanup

By HARRY KRAUSE
Associated Press Writer

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Air pollution in the tri-state area causes residents to spend more than $20 million a year to keep their households clean, a researcher for the federal government said Wednesday.

The speaker, Richard D. Wilson, told participants at an air pollution abatement conference that the costs could be cut in half with the installation of proper control equipment.

Wilson is in the Socio-Economic Effects section of the National Air Pollution Control Administration (NAPCA).

The administration is part of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which is sponsoring a four-day conference here for agencies from West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

The conference started Tuesday.

Wilson said his figures were taken only for 40 per cent of the area population that lived along the Ohio River in the Ironton-Ashland-Huntington region. The figures, he said, would be greater for the area's total population of 250,000.

Wilson said more effective control of dirt released into the air would lower the damages to 9.2 million a year.

In other testimony, Dr. C. Wayne Franz, manager of the emergency physician service at an Ashland hospital, said air pollution was one of the principal causes of chronic bronchitis. He also said air pollution caused headaches, dizziness, coughing, blood poisoning, chest pains and vomiting.

Testimony was to continue Wednesday afternoon with a presentation by the Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission and various Kentucky industries in this area.

Computer Programmer Does Well Despite Being Blind

By HAROLD V. STREETER
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Paul Duke, a big man, eager and confident, personifies the successful technician of the computer age.

As a programming analyst of the RCA Information Systems Division at Camden, N.J., he has the warm respect of scores of colleagues.

He is happily married and has two sons at his home in Cherry Hill, N.J.

One thing sets him apart. Paul Duke has never once seen his wife, Dolores. He has never seen his children. And he has never seen the computers with which his mind works brilliantly.

Paul Duke is blind. As one of the first sightless people to enter the computer field, the 38-year-old Marine

Taft Is Named To Presidential Election Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R - Ohio, has been named to the steering committee of the People's Presidential Committee, a group formed to get assurances that the House of Representatives elects the presidential candidate with the highest popular vote in case of an impasse in the electoral college.

Leaders of the effort said the goal of the bipartisan committee will be to get pledges from enough candidates for the next Congress to make certain the House follows the expressed will of the voters.

The plan is geared to the possibility that the third party candidacy of George Wallace will prevent either the Democratic or Republican candidate from winning a majority of the electoral votes.

Taft Is Named To Presidential Election Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R - Ohio, has been named to the steering committee of the People's Presidential Committee, a group formed to get assurances that the House of Representatives elects the presidential candidate with the highest popular vote in case of an impasse in the electoral college.

Leaders of the effort said the goal of the bipartisan committee will be to get pledges from enough candidates for the next Congress to make certain the House follows the expressed will of the voters.

The plan is geared to the possibility that the third party candidacy of George Wallace will prevent either the Democratic or Republican candidate from winning a majority of the electoral votes.

No Longer Best By a Dam Site

CARLYLE, Ill. (AP) — Carlyle no longer is known as a community that is "best by a dam site."

Signs carrying the slogan had been erected at highway entrances to the city to call attention to the new dam on the Kaskaskia River.

But many residents thought the language was objectionable so the City Council ordered new signs saying, "Community of Opportunity."

Demos Eye Unit Rule

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Democratic governors are choosing sides for a convention-time dispute over Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's challenge to the unit rule, the system which in some states requires all nominating delegates to vote for the candidate favored by a majority.

Governors from the South, where that rule of delegation solidarity is widespread, are insisting that it be maintained. Some from the North are talking support for a move to ban the unit rule by vote of the Democratic national convention.

Abolition is the aim of forces favoring Minnesota's McCarthy for the Democratic nomination. While no governor has endorsed McCarthy for nomination there are signs his forces will have some gubernatorial support in an effort to end the unit rule.

IFYE Student from India Visits Sterling Poling Farm

Jagjit Chauhan, 25, of northern India, is an International Foreign Exchange Student staying with the Sterling Poling family in Saltcreek Twp. this week.

"Juggy" as he likes to be called by his American friends, is from the extreme northern part of India, in that neck of the country which lies between Tibet and Pakistan.

He lives in the Himalaya Mountains at an elevation of about 7,000 feet on a fruit farm. Chauhan has a bachelor of science degree in agriculture.

Although the way of life in the part of India from where he comes seems primitive compared to life in the United States, Chauhan says the north of India is not a poverty area.

HE lives on a 60 acre fruit farm. There is no electricity and no roads. The nearest transportation center is about six miles from his home.

The farm produce must be carried there.

There are few large pieces of farm machinery in that part of India. Much of the work is done by manual labor. The mule is the primary beast of burden.

Large farm implements, such as combines, are usually owned by the government or jointly by several farmers.

According to Chauhan, the ownership of large farms and much modern equipment is discouraged because it would create an unemployment problem in the country. Because much of the farm work is done with manual labor, many persons are employed to produce crops.

As long as a person works in India, he will not be poor, Chauhan says. He believes that the use of modern machinery will not become widespread in the country until the labor problem is solved.

THE picture most people draw of India as being a land of the very rich or the very poor is no longer true, Chauhan says. He noted that it has been at least five or six years since he has heard or read of a starvation death in the country.

As an IFYE student, Chauhan will stay six months in the United States. He has already completed two of those months and will soon meet in Columbus with 17 other exchange students from India as well as students from other countries for a "mid point" discussion session.

Chauhan's primary areas of interest while in the United States are orcharding, poultry raising and 4-H work. Just before coming to Pickaway County, he stayed with a farm family in Astabula County.

He plans to complete his stay in the state of Washington.

Although he says he has not been here long enough to form much of an opinion of America, he has been most impressed by the hospitality and friendliness of the families with whom he has stayed.

Juggy, according to Mrs. Poling, has not yet acquired the American farmers' love for iced drinks. A Hindu, he does not eat beef.

The Polings several years ago hosted an exchange student from South America who spoke practically no English. The newest guest speaks English fluently.

Renaissance Is Lanvin Show Theme

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Jeanne Lanvin's winter collection is beautifully styled, featuring new fabrics with rich, glittering embroidery reminiscent of the Italian and French Renaissance.

His new silhouette concentrates on the Japanese judo tunic which is treated for day in Paris black and for evening in plain or novelty fabrics.

Jules Francois Crabay, Lanvin's designer, resorts to variations of the tunic as styled wrap-around sheaths. Most are fringed, and there is a wide choice of fringes in cocktail and evening clothes.

Many of these simple, clinging sheaths show a Persian influence and are decorated in Koran embroideries.

Nearly all models for after-five wear are cluttered with multiple, jewel chains, some reaching almost to the floor-length hemlines.

Daytime hemlines clear the kneecaps and are often two or three inches above.

Marie Christine, Lanvin's 15-year-old mannequin, showed no stage fright in her first public appearance. Hair stylist Alexander made her bridal headdress a fantasy dedicated to the glory of Venice.

Blaze Hits Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A fire of undetermined origin Wednesday destroyed the three-story Ohio Electric Co. building in Dayton. Firemen estimated damage at $50,000.

UNFAMILIAR SEAT — Jagjit Chauhan of India, a foreign exchange student spending the week with the Sterling Poling family in Saltcreek Twp., sits on a tractor. The visitor reports that few large pieces of farm machinery are owned by individuals in India.

He lives in the Himalaya Mountains at an elevation of about 7,000 feet on a fruit farm. Chauhan has a bachelor of science degree in agriculture.

Although the way of life in the part of India from where he comes seems primitive compared to life in the United States, Chauhan says the north of India is not a poverty area.

He lives on a 60 acre fruit farm. There is no electricity and no roads. The nearest transportation center is about six miles from his home.

The farm produce must be carried there.

There are few large pieces of farm machinery in that part of India. Much of the work is done by manual labor. The mule is the primary beast of burden.

Large farm implements, such as combines, are usually owned by the government or jointly by several farmers.

According to Chauhan, the ownership of large farms and much modern equipment is discouraged because it would create an unemployment problem in the country. Because much of the farm work is done with manual labor, many persons are employed to produce crops.

As long as a person works in India, he will not be poor, Chauhan says. He believes that the use of modern machinery will not become widespread in the country until the labor problem is solved.

THE picture most people draw of India as being a land of the very rich or the very poor is no longer true, Chauhan says. He noted that it has been at least five or six years since he has heard or read of a starvation death in the country.

As an IFYE student, Chauhan will stay six months in the United States. He has already completed two of those months and will soon meet in Columbus with 17 other exchange students from India as well as students from other countries for a "mid point" discussion session.

Chauhan's primary areas of interest while in the United States are orcharding, poultry raising and 4-H work. Just before coming to Pickaway County, he stayed with a farm family in Astabula County.

He plans to complete his stay in the state of Washington.

Although he says he has not been here long enough to form much of an opinion of America, he has been most impressed by the hospitality and friendliness of the families with whom he has stayed.

Juggy, according to Mrs. Poling, has not yet acquired the American farmers' love for iced drinks. A Hindu, he does not eat beef.

The Polings several years ago hosted an exchange student from South America who spoke practically no English. The newest guest speaks English fluently.

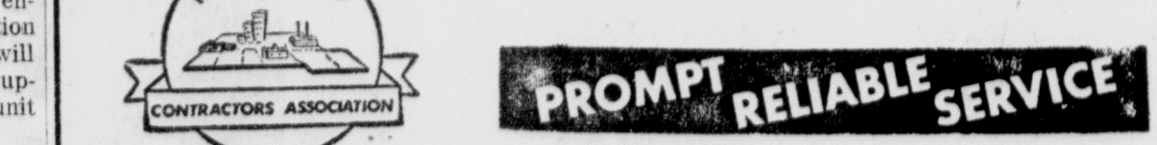

UNFAMILIAR SEAT — Jagjit Chauhan of India, a foreign exchange student spending the week with the Sterling Poling family in Saltcreek Twp., sits on a tractor. The visitor reports that few large pieces of farm machinery are owned by individuals in India.

Reserves Undergo Riot Training

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two platoons of soldiers, dripping sweat in the 90-degree heat, marched sullenly toward a crowd of jeering rioters. A tear gas canister exploded in a building ahead of the troops, and the columns bucked and sagged as the mist engulfed them.

They had no masks. Bayonets, once aimed at the throats of the rioters, sank toward the pavement as the gasping soldiers reached to cover their eyes or fend off staggering comrades.

An officer barked an order, and the platoons spread out across the street to close with the mob.

Water, thrown from rioters' buckets, and clumps of dirt and grass pelted the stumbling and coughing soldiers as they shoved their bayonets forward and drove the mob up the street.

A whistle blew, and the action halted. "Provisional Company C" had accomplished its mission. But a lieutenant colonel said in a later critique: "A lack of control was one of the biggest problems."

The exercise, one of hundreds performed throughout the nation in June and July, was designed to prepare elements of the Army Reserve for possible activation to control civil disturbances in the cities this summer. The Reserve has not been used before for this purpose.

The "rioters" were members of Reserve units who took turns creating disturbances and quelling them.

In the simulated city on the midway of the North Carolina State Fairgrounds, the rioters had more fun than the troops, who were being trained against the day when the grass hurred at them might be bricks and the water Molotov cocktails.

The sessions, conducted in two weekend drill periods, were divided between classroom lectures on riot control, training films and "practical exercises" in the field.

"Today," said one lieutenant during an early classroom session, riots are mostly planned by agitators." The agitators, he added, often use women and children in the forefront of mobs "for sympathy," and most charges of police brutality stem from action taken against such mobs. "That's being planned by trained agitators," he said.

An hour earlier, however, another officer had told the men riots are caused by the frustrations and growing unrest spawned in the big city slums.

The varying points of view, however, weren't discussed as often as the "Army line" on the use of restraint, mental preparation and discipline in control of civil disturbances.

"Fighting back is the last straw." The primary role of the Army in a riot area is for use as "a show of force." "Use only the amount of force which is ab-

Overdue Plane Safely on Ground
PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — A single-engine plane reported overdue on a flight from Gary to Hamilton, Ohio, landed at Plymouth Municipal Airport here Tuesday.

The plane, a blue and white Comanche, was flown by Jack Radius of Cincinnati, Ohio. Radius said he had canceled his flight plan by radio to the Indianapolis airport while in flight.

The officers did attempt, however, to arm the men with some information developed in the wake of recent riots.

"Most of your training," said one lecturer, "has been with large mobs, but most of the problems in this country have been with small hit-and-run groups of looters, arsonists and whatnot."

Open Bids on Highway Work in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Department of Highways officials opened bids on 39 projects worth a total of 18.8 million Tuesday, including a segment of the Appalachia Highway system.

Apparent low bidder on the Appalachia project, relocation and widening of 3.8 miles of Ohio 124 in Jackson County, was J. J. Blazer Construction Co. of Wheelersburg with a bid of $2.4 million for the project which state officials had estimated would cost $2.3 million.

Apparently low bidder on construction of six bridges and improvement of 3.5 miles of Ohio 7 in Jefferson County was S. J. Groves & Son Co. of Minneapolis, Minn. The company bid $6.1 million, matching the state estimate.

Federal projects on which bids were opened Tuesday included, by county:

Adams—improvements to 3.86 miles of Ohio 136, Roland A. Getz, Inc., of Mansfield, $1,209,641. Estimate, $1,167,000.

State projects by county, included:

Allen, Hancock and Hardin—surface treatment of shoulders on 16.59 miles of U.S. 30N and 10.65 miles of Ohio 117 in Allen Co.; 12.14 miles of U.S. 30N, 4.53 miles of U.S. 68, 7.27 miles of U.S. 224 and 10.48 miles of Ohio 12 in Hancock County; and 10.37 miles of U.S. 68, 2.36 miles of Ohio 69 and .26 miles of Ohio 117 in Hardin County, William Light Construction Co. Cincinnati, $32,132. Estimate, $39,700.

"Fighting back is the last straw." The primary role of the Army in a riot area is for use as "a show of force." "Use only the amount of force which is ab-

"Most of your training," said one lecturer, "has been with large mobs, but most of the problems in this country have been with small hit-and-run groups of looters, arsonists and whatnot."

See Conflict in State War on Deserting Fathers

By DIANA STOVER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Is the state's war on deserting fathers in conflict with a new concept of welfare stressing the dignity of recipients?

"It depends upon whether the hunting down of non-supporting fathers is handled as a service or a requirement," said Leza Gooden, Franklin County deputy welfare director.

Mrs. Gooden explained that the possible conflict would come between the state law requiring county welfare departments to file non-support charges against absent parents and a recent directive from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

The directive requires states to accept declarative statements of need in Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) cases by July 1, 1969, instead of conducting lengthy investigations of applicants to determine need.

Robert B. Canary, assistant state welfare director, said if states disregarded the directive it would probably mean the loss of federal AC funds.

Spot checks similar to those run in income tax returns will be made on 1 to 2 per cent of the statements to determine if the applicants needed welfare, Canary said.

Under the federal directive, if the mother says she has no income because her husband has deserted her, then caseworkers must accept this declarative statement as fact, Gooden said. Gooden said it would then be the welfare department's responsibility to find the father on its own and charge him with non-support. At present, an ADC applicant must turn in an abandonment form.

A manual written by Lele Lee, executive assistant to the state welfare director, on how to implement the new law gives caseworkers the following instructions:

"The parent remaining in the home must be impressed with his or her responsibility to cooperate with the agency by furnishing information necessary to the prosecution of the absent parent."

It directs caseworkers to require applicants to furnish the last known address, employer, names of relatives, names of friends, club memberships and social security number of the absent parent.

Welfare recipient organizations, which have been organized across the country, have long been protesting this type of investigations.

Dr. Marvin Rosenberg, assistant professor in the school of applied social service at Case Western University in Cleveland, said in an interview that many times investigations to find absent parents were "invasions of privacy."

"It's the old puritan ethic notion based on a deeply rooted suspicion that unless society constantly investigates and scrutinizes people on welfare, they will cheat and take advantage of society," he said.

Rosenberg said the puritan ethic was more harshly applied against the poor than other segments of society.

Rosenberg is on the mayor's commission on the crisis in welfare, which was appointed by Carl Stokes of Cleveland.

The commission has called for a guaranteed annual income to replace welfare programs partly to end indignities suffered by clients who are constantly investigated by welfare officials.

Lee, who resigned as Allen County welfare director last September to coordinate the county-based war on deserting fathers, indicated that the mores dictated by American society prompted the war.

"A man has a moral obligation to support the children he brings into the world," he said. "We're not saying that all of these parents can or will pay, but we want a court to rule on whether they can pay. The taxpayers are footing the bill these men should pay."

There are counter pressures by the federal government, welfare recipient organizations and welfare commissions, such as the Cleveland commission, in a movement away from the type of investigations described in the Ohio manual. This means, if this trend continues, a year from now when the declarative statements take effect the state may have to re-evaluate its enforcement of the war on deserting fathers.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Teen Sitter's Sense To Be Commended

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old daughter, Jan, baby sits for Mr. K., who has no wife. Last night Mr. K. went to a political rally and came home about 2 a.m. "stoned."

Jan said when she saw his condition she told him that she had better be the one to drive back to her home, and she got no argument from Mr. K.

Well, they were stopped by a police officer for questioning since it was after curfew. Jan told the policeman exactly what had happened, so he made her drive back to Mr. K.'s, and WALK home, accompanied by Mr. K. because he didn't want Mr. K. driving at all.

I was very proud of my daughter, and hope you will print this together with your comments to show that some teenagers have better sense than some adults.

JAN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Jan is to be commended for refusing to allow Mr. K. to drive her home. But she overlooked the risks of allowing a "stoned" man driving HIMSELF back to his house. Hooray for the police officer for not allowing Mr. K. to drive at all. But he also overlooked the dangers of a stoned man walking alone at night. The officer could have offered to take Jan home, but since he didn't, Jan should have taken a taxi home — at Mr. K.'s expense.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently moved from a farm to a small town and I have a serious problem.

My 5-year-old child goes into the neighbors' homes, and I cannot find her. I have pleaded with my neighbors not to let her in the house, but they do anyway. I have punished the child, but it hasn't done any good.

As I write this, it is 9:20 p.m. and I have screamed until I am hoarse. I have telephoned every one of the neighbors I can think of to find out if my child is there and I am sick of it. This isn't the first time this has happened. What shall I do?

BRANDENBURG, KY.
DEAR BRANDENBURG: granted, your neighbors should not allow your child into their homes knowing you disapprove, but the biggest problem is not your neighbors, it's your child, and the manner in which she defies you. Unless you take some positive steps to let her know who's boss, you'd better prepare yourself for some king-sized headaches.

Dear Abby: You are usually right on target, but this time you missed the bull's eye when you told the woman whose husband had lost "all interest" in her to get him to a doctor. Doctor, ha! My husband lost "all interest" in me after we had been married only 2 years. I kept my mouth shut and my eyes open and did a little private-eying on my own. I soon found out why he had lost "all interest" in me. He was worn out. He only came home to recharge his batteries.

More Disorders

May Break Out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John McElroy, top assistant to Gov. James A. Rhodes, said today that "We've had information that there are concerted plans for disorders in some cities throughout the nation."

"Now, this is raw, unevaluated information," McElroy stressed in a telephone interview. He said the plans involved black nationalists, but did not know what cities were involved.

He said "It just seemed prudent last night to assume that there might be some problems in other Ohio cities."

"We don't know. We may have overreacted," he said referring to the call to duty of the Ohio Army and Air National Guard troops.

When asked if he felt the disorders spread from Akron to Cleveland, McElroy said:

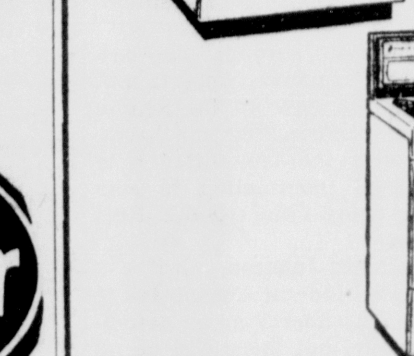

"No, I do not. This seemed to be an altogether different kind of thing."

McElroy said he "has no reason to believe" that the Cleveland shootings were timed to coincide with President Johnson's Tuesday night appearance at the National Governors Conference in Cincinnati.

Strip-Tease Film Becomes Issue in Fortas Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 14-minute strip-tease film entitled "0-7" has become an issue in the fight over Senate confirmation of President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice.

Two Senate Judiciary Committee members, Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Hiram

L. Fong, R-Hawaii, say all their colleagues should see the film before voting on Fortas' nomination.

McClellan said this is one reason he blocked action at a committee meeting Wednesday on a motion by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., to recommend that Fortas be confirmed.

"I thought every member of the committee should have an opportunity to see the film before they vote," McClellan said.

Fong said the film was discussed at Wednesday's closed committee session. "All the members are anxious to see it, and I think they should," he said.

McClellan, Fong and Hart earlier this week saw the film shown by James J. Clancy, a Los Angeles attorney representing Citizens for Decent Literature, Inc.

Clancy subsequently told the full committee that a 5-4 Supreme Court decision, "with Justice Fortas casting the deciding vote," reversed the finding of a federal district judge, a Los Angeles jury, and California appellate courts that the film was hard-core pornography.

"This judgment is representative of his actions in other cases," Clancy testified in referring to decisions of Fortas in obscenity cases since he became a member of the Supreme Court in 1965.

A committee meeting may be called next week, but with many of its Republican members leaving for Miami Beach for preliminary to the GOP National Convention it is doubtful a quorum will be on hand. Since Congress will recess at the end of next week for both party conventions in August it is unlikely that the committee will resume its deliberations until September.

The delay shrouds the outcome in further uncertainty, since a filibuster in the Senate against confirmation is threatened once the committee acts on Fortas' nomination to succeed retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren.

President Johnson also has nominated federal Circuit Judge Homer Thornberry as an associate justice, but there will be no vacancy on the court for Thornberry to fill unless Fortas is confirmed.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said he didn't think the committee's hearings had helped Fortas' chances and predicted it will be very difficult to break a filibuster. A two-thirds majority is required to end debate.

Earlier Hart, a Fortas supporter, had said the same thing.

McClellan described the film "0-7" as "something no civilized country can tolerate." He said he understands it is not permitted to be shown "even in France."

The entire film consists of a girl in bra, garter belt and sheer transparent panties gradually stripping herself naked, mostly while writhing on a couch.

Israel Talks Softly about Hijacked Plane

Belief Grows Nation May Take Action

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli government talked softly today about its hijacked airliner despite growing belief abroad that it would retaliate with some action against one of its Arab neighbors.

Algeria, where the plane was forced to land Tuesday by three members of an Arab terrorist organization, also seemed to be moving cautiously.

The Algerian delegate to the United Nations, Tewfik Boutatoua, told U.N. Undersecretary-General Ralph J. Bunche his government is still investigating the hijacking and has not decided what to do with the Boeing 707 jet, its 10 crew members from El Al, the Israeli airline, and the 12 Israeli passengers. The Algerians released 23 non-Israeli passengers Tuesday.

"We have to give the Algerians a chance," an Israeli government spokesman said. "How long we are prepared to wait, nobody is able to say."

"At this stage Israel is still trying not to take any stern measures or reach a confrontation on matters of prestige with the Algerian government," said Aviezer Scheluch, assistant director of the foreign ministry in a broadcast.

But diplomats in London felt an Israeli act of reprisal against some Arab state—possibly Egypt or Jordan—is inevitable if the Algerians don't release the 22 Israelis and the $6 million plane.

The Arab commando group which did the hijacking, the Front for the Liberation of Palestine, said in a Cairo news conference that the detained Israelis would be released only in exchange for Arab commandos held in Israel.

The Algerian government still gave no indication that it considered the captive Israeli hostages.

Set Probe Of Akron Outbreak

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Mayor John S. Ballard is expected to name a fact-finding committee to investigate disturbances that broke out last week in Negro areas of the city and brought a call for National Guard troops.

A group of religious, anti-poverty and civil rights leaders asked for the investigation, and City Hall sources said Wednesday the commission probably will be picked within the next few days.

The investigation would examine the background of the disturbances and ways to prevent further disorders.

Mayor Ballard lifted the dusk-to-dawn curfew Wednesday night and urged responsible citizens to "stand up and say to these militants and these hot heads 'we have had enough.'"

The mayor also announced a reduction in the National Guard force and pulled back the 550 still here to staging areas on a standby basis. The total guard force reached more than 1,000 before cutbacks were ordered.

Safe Company To Build Plant

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gary Safe Co. of Los Angeles is going to start construction soon on a $500,000 plant in suburban Lincoln Heights which is about 99 per cent Negro.

The company, which produces safes for businesses, grocery store chains and homes, will be the first industry to move into Lincoln Heights since urban renewal plans were launched a year ago.

Soviet - U.S. Talks Are Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations for starting U.S.-Soviet talks on curbing the superpower missile race apparently have been stalled by the Kremlin's preoccupation with Czechoslovakia.

It is now four weeks to the day since Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko officially signaled Soviet readiness to begin the talks, for which Washington had been pressing for 1½ years.

President Johnson quickly responded with an announcement July 1:

"Agreement has been reached between the governments of the U.S.S.R. and the United States to enter in the nearest future into discussions on the limitation and reduction of both offensive strategic nuclear weapons delivery systems and systems of defense against ballistic missiles."

U.S. authorities said at the time that careful preliminary U.S.-Soviet diplomatic exchanges would be necessary to outline the subject matter of the talks and agree on what categories of persons should be assigned to the negotiating teams, since the atomic missiles question goes to the heart of the military might of the two great powers.

But these U.S. officials had generally expected that an accord on a time and place to begin the talks would be virtually wrapped up by the time the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference convened for its summer session July 15.

Instead, "the nearest future" of which Johnson spoke is lengthening by the day and administration sources now shy from predictions on when the discussions may start.

While the exact state of the preliminary negotiations is a closely held secret, it is understood that some days have elapsed since a reply of any kind was received from the Soviets to the last U.S. proposal about how to proceed.

In the absence of any official word from Moscow explaining the delay in a Soviet response, U.S. strategists are now inclined to attribute it mainly to the priority Soviet leaders are giving to their campaign to keep upstart Czechoslovakia in line.

According to this reasoning, the Kremlin these days operates under committee rule and it takes time for the leadership to decide on major issues such as a potential missiles hold-down.

The Czech bolt from the established order of the East European Communist camp has clearly engrossed the Kremlin as its most pressing foreign policy problem. For example, the entire 11-man ruling Politburo is slated to travel to Czechoslovakia shortly on this issue.

Thus, it is widely believed here, the Soviet chiefs are not likely to focus on the decisions needed to begin the missile talks with the United States until they have completed their decision-making on Czechoslovakia.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Reports— inaccurate, as it turned out—of the impending cancellation of NBC's science-fiction series, "Star Trek" earlier this year resulted in a record-breaking flood of viewer mail, even some demonstrations outside network headquarters. In the eye of the storm was Bill Shatner, ex-Shakespearean actor, ex-Broadway performer, who has been learning that being a television star in a popular series—in some ways—isn't all its cracked up to be.

By WILLIAM SHATNER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As a professional actor with 15 years experience I have enjoyed some success among the fans and my fellow actors, but never have I experienced such acclaim as my role in "Star Trek" has brought me.

The mere fact that I am an actor would indicate that I enjoy this, and naturally I do, but it's a funny thing the way the sudden public recognition changes how you are treated not only by the fans, but by your fellow actors, directors, producers and even your family.

For example before I was in this series going to a movie was no big thing. I'd just get in my car, drive to the theater and buy a ticket. Now if I stand in line to buy a ticket people ask for autographs, stare, poke each other and ask, "What's he doing standing in line." It really becomes kind of uncomfortable.

So as a result now I call the theater and say I want to come and see the picture, but that I don't want to stand in the box office line impeding the orderly sale of tickets. Usually they say just come right to the door and we'll collect your money there.

Things changed after the first year of the series. Now nobody on the set comes up and says, "Hi, Bill. How are you?" I find that I have to walk up to them, and say hello first. It's all a little silly, but there is a definite change in the way people treat anyone who happens to be lucky enough to be in a hit series.

Even directors are inclined now to suggest rather than tell you how they want a scene played. It used to be, "Bill, in this scene I want you to do this and so." Now the approach seems to be, "Bill, how do you feel about doing the scene this way?"

Producers seem to be effected in the same way. Used to be they'd call, if I were lucky, and say, "Bill, I've got a role in this picture that you might fit." They would then pause and wait for me to jump at the job offer. Now the approach is, "I don't really think you'd be interested in this role, but—"

Still another, and more shocking change in attitude is within my own family. Not my immediate family, but with cousins, aunts and uncles with whom I grew up. Last year I

Gun Control Bill

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pointing to recent violence in Cleveland, Ohio, U.S. Senate candidate John J. Gilligan renewed his call Wednesday for tighter gun control legislation.

The Democrat and current Cincinnati city councilman also criticized opponents of stricter control, especially his Republican opponent, Ohio Atty. Gen. William Saxbe. He criticized Saxbe for being "stubborn" about the issue.

"We cannot have a civilized community with the indiscriminate use of firearms," said Gilligan who sent telegrams to all Ohio members of the U.S. House of Representatives Wednesday.

He urged them to reconsider and reject an amendment to the gun control bill approved by the House which would exempt members of special interest groups from mail order bans.

Strip - Tease Film Becomes Issue in Fortas Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 14-minute strip-tease film entitled "0-7" has become an issue in the fight over Senate confirmation of President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice.

Two Senate Judiciary Committee members, Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Hiram

L. Fong, R-Hawaii, say all their colleagues should see the film before voting on Fortas' nomination.

McClellan said this is one reason he blocked action at a committee meeting Wednesday on a motion by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., to recommend that Fortas be confirmed.

"This judgment is representative of his actions in other cases," Clancy testified in referring to decisions of Fortas in obscenity cases since he became a member of the Supreme Court in 1965.

A committee meeting may be called next week, but with many of its Republican members leaving for Miami Beach for preliminaries to the GOP National Convention it is doubtful a quorum will be on hand. Since Congress will recess at the end of next week for both party conventions in August it is unlikely that the committee will resume its deliberations until September.

Stofa Defends Pro Gridders' Intelligence

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — John Stofa has been studying plays since being acquired by the Cincinnati Bengals last winter and he emphasized here Wednesday that football players are not dumb.

"How can anyone say these guys are dumb?" asked Stofa, the only experienced quarterback on the American Football League team holding training camp here.

"Everytime I hear that crack from some one I burn up inside," Stofa continued.

Stofa described some of the complex maneuvers and explained that every team member must know exactly how to execute a play and know what is going on.

"Look, a back has to know, in detail, the four different passing series. If it's a flare, there is different 'flare action' and each requires different blocking. It's everyone thinking all the time," he said.

He also said the linemen have eight or nine ways to block depending on the defensive setup and said the team has about 30 running plays and probably 50 passing combinations — and all require study.

"It's unbelievable. Anyone who plays this game has got to be concentrating, all thinking," he asserted.

He compared the teams' studying for a recent test of plays to "exam week in college."

During Wednesday workouts, split end Bob Trumpy suffered a badly bruised heel as he was belted to rock-hard ground.

Benvenuti Stars

ROME (AP)—Nine Benvenuti of Italy, the world middleweight boxing champion, has decided to make his first movie film. He'll costar in an Italian comedy western in which he learns how to use his fists. The film will be called Vivi O Preferibilmente Morti, which translated means Live Or Preferably Die.

THRILLS AND SPILLS—There is action all the time at Pickaway Speedway each Friday where central Ohio stock drivers compete in oval and figure eight races. The figure eight feature race at the one-third mile track always provides excitement for racing fans.

Pro football's Super Bowl will be played tonight Green Bay vs. Green Bay.

Actually, it's only an intrasquad game, but Phil Bengtson, the Packers' new coach, will be watching as if another championship were at stake.

The main objects of Bengtson's interest will be fullback Jim Grabowski and halfback Elijah Pitts. Both missed the Super Bowl game with injuries and if they are recovered it will lighten Bengtson's already tough task of following in the coaching footsteps of Vince Lombardi.

Bengtson said he will field essentially the same offensive and defensive units that started the Super Bowl game against Oakland, including quarterback Bart Starr, five pounds lighter after several days of intestinal flu. Starr said he felt okay after Wednesday's scrimmage.

There was some action Wednesday night. Jim Corcoran, leading passer in the Atlantic Coast Football League last season, threw three touchdown passes as the New York Jets' rookies beat Bridgeport, their AFL farm club, 28-0.

Corcoran connected with Harvey Nairn of Southern University on a 75-yard scoring play and also threw for TDs of 15 yards to Tom Burnett and 14 to Wayne Richardson. Burnett and Richardson also played in the AFL last year.

Elsewhere, there were the usual number of injuries.

Pete Gent, a regular flanker for the Dallas Cowboys two years ago, was moved to tight end and promptly pulled a leg muscle. Offensive guard Chuck Walton of the Detroit Lions will undergo surgery to repair tendon damage in his right elbow.

Ernie Ladd, Kansas City's giant defensive end, pulled a groin muscle and rookie Lindon Endsley injured a foot. Split end Jerry Simmons, regarded as a starter for the Atlanta Falcons, was sidelined with a nervous stomach.

In the Philadelphia Eagles' Slicers moved to within three points of the leading team in Upper Lansdowne Golf League, scoring 20 points Wednesday.

The team composed of Ray Bullock, Bill Snyder, Mike Neff and Tony Preidis has a total of 37 points to trail Parbusters' 40 point total.

Sandbaggers are third with 33 points. Next are Three-Putters, 32 points; Sandtrappers, 31 points; Duffers, 30 points; Hookers, 20 points; and Slapshots, 17 points.

Low gross was Chuck Hanes with 39. Low net was Paul Francis with 31.

Forced Run Gives Astros 1-0 Win

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Only three of Los Angeles' four hits against Don Wilson will show up on the Dodgers' side of the box score today. The one that won't hurt Don Drysdale a lot more than Wilson and the Houston Astros.

Dodger ace Drysdale forced in a fifth inning run Wednesday night by nicking Wilson with a pitch and the Houston right-hander made it stand up for a 1-0 victory over Los Angeles.

Wilson yielded three early singles, then retired the last 16 batters he faced—striking out the side in the ninth inning—to win the nod in a brilliant struggle with Drysdale.

In other National League games, St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 3-1; Atlanta stopped New York 3-2 in 10 innings and Chicago blanked San Francisco

2-0. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh were rained out.

Dennis Menke and Bob Aspromonte touched Drysdale for singles in the fifth inning and Ron Brand was hit by a pitch, filling the bases. When Drysdale plunked Wilson with a pitch, Menke trotted home with the game's only run.

Drysdale also hit Rusty Staub with a pitch in the eighth inning for a career total of 151 hit batters, one short of the National League record held by "Iron Man" Joe McGinnity.

Wilson, 8-11, stopped the Dodgers cold after Bob Bailey's fourth-inning single. Drysdale, 12-7, yielded four hits before going out for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Curt Flood's two-run single climaxed a three-run third inning burst that carried St. Louis right-hander Ray Washburn, 9-3, to his sixth straight triumph. Dick Schofield singled home the first run off Larry Jackson, tying the game 1-1, before Flood delivered the deciding hit.

The Cards' third straight victory over Philadelphia gave them an 18-4 July record and kept them atop the league by 12½ games.

Second place Atlanta spotted the Mets a run in the top of the 10th, then snapped a five-game losing streak on Deron Johnson's two-out pinch single, Mike Lum's triple and a game-winning single by Bob Johnson.

Ed Charles' pinch homer in the eighth lifted the Mets into a 1-1 tie and they scored the go-ahead run in the 10th on Jerry Buchek's double, a sacrifice bunt and Bud Harrelson's two-out infield hit.

Ron Santo's two-run ninth inning homer off the Giants' Gaylord Perry broke up a scoreless due, and gave southpaw Ken Holtzman his sixth victory in 13 decisions.

Holtzman scattered seven hits and Perry allowed only three until the ninth, when Billy Williams singled and Santo blasted his 15th homer, an opposite field shot to right.

Logan Elm Village Wins Softball Tilt

Logan Elm Village doubled the score on Ashville Merchants, posting a 16-8 Circleville Slow Pitch Softball League win Wednesday.

Rain Again Saves Cincinnati Reds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Rain has now saved Cincinnati twice against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rain forced postponement of the Reds' game with Pittsburgh here Wednesday night and Cincinnati certainly had no complaints, being down 6-0 in the bottom of the second inning.

In fact, the Pirates had amassed the runs and seven hits and had a man on third base when the game was called with two outs.

Earlier this year, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were tied 8-8 in Cincinnati before the Pirates scored twice in the top of the eighth inning. But the whole inning was not completed and the game was postponed by rain with the score reverting to the previous complete inning.

Donn Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski both stroked two-run singles in the first inning Wednesday night off red hurler Gary Nolan to give the Pirates a 4-0 margin. They added two more in the second on Maury Wills' run-scoring single and Manny Mota's double that plated Wills.

The Reds, who have now had three games postponed in the last 17 days, failed to get a man to base in their two trips to the plate, and no one hit the ball out of the infield against rookie pitcher Bob Moose.

Officials said the game would be made up when the Reds return here late September.

Mud Hens Win Pair At Buffalo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toledo is leading the International League because it wins big before the home folks, but in the last couple of weeks the Mud Hens have shown they can also win some mighty important games on the road.

Entering a series at Buffalo Tuesday night, Toledo had dropped four in a row. Whereupon the Mud Hens once more showed they could win away from home.

Tuesday night they downed the Bisons 8-6 and Wednesday night did it again, this time by 7-3, to up their league lead to four games.

Rochester, reviving after dropping 10 of 11 starts, clipped Syracuse 6-1; Jacksonville beat Richmond, 8-1, and Columbus defeated Louisville 8-2 in a rain-shortened seven-inning game in other Wednesday action.

Mike Derrick's two home runs and three unearned tallies in a five-run seventh inning carried Toledo past Buffalo. Mike Marshall won his eighth game fanning 13 Bisons.

Columbus made pitcher Jerry Wirt a winner by tripping Louisville. Six runs crossed the plate in a six-hit third inning for the Jets.

Orioles Trip Cleveland, 1-0

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Baltimore Orioles and Oakland Athletics really know how to hurt a guy. The Orioles beat one fellow at his own game and the A's beat another at his 90th game.

Luis Tiant of the Cleveland Indians and Hoyt Wilhelm of the Chicago White Sox wore the bruises today.
Giving Tiant a taste of his own medicine, the Orioles blanked the American League's shutout leader 1-0 Wednesday night behind Dave McNally, and took second place by a full game.

Oakland watched peaceably while Wilhelm broke the major league record for pitching appearances, but when the ageless reliever tried an encore, the A's knocked him out with two swings for a 1-0, 2-1 doubleheader sweep over the Sox.

Tiant's loss particularly hurt because it enabled the Orioles, instead of the Indians, to pick up another game on the slipping Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers dropped a 6-3 decision to Washington and find their 9 1/2 game lead of 13 days ago cut to five over Baltimore, with Cleveland another length back.

Boston, rained out at New York, picked up a half game and now stands 9 1/2 behind in the tightening race.

Minnesota crushed California 12-1 in the other contest.

Tiant, 16-6, aiming for his ninth shutout, lost it in the first inning when Don Buford opened with a triple and two outs later Boog Powell doubled. The Indians' ace right-hander stopped the Orioles from then on until the eighth when he left for a pinch hitter after giving five hits, but the damage was done.

McNally, winning his fourth straight since the All-Star break, hurled a six-hitter to raise his record to 12-8 as he gave the Orioles their first shutout against Cleveland this season. The Indians had blanked the Orioles four times, including once by Tiant.

Jim Nash, 7-6, halted the White Sox on four hits in the opener, beating Tommy John, 7-3, on Rick Monday's two-out single in the fifth inning after Bert Campaneris singled and stole second. But the big excitement was supplied by Wilhelm.

The knuckleballer, who will be 45 Friday, pitched the ninth inning, getting a standing ovation as he made his 90th pitching appearance in 17 years. It broke the mark of 906 set by Cy Young in 1911.

But his second showing, and 43rd of the season, in the second game failed to impress the A's. The White Sox had scored their first run in 38 innings in the eighth against John "Blue Moon" Odom on Luis Aparicio's hit for a 1-1 tie, but Wilhelm lost it in the ninth.

Reggie Jackson stroked a single, took second when center fielder Ken Berry bobbled the ball and one out later, after an intentional walk, Floyd Robinson cracked the game-winning single.

Detroit lost for the ninth time in 14 games since the All-Star break as the Senators' Ken McMullen drove in four runs with a homer and single and Hank Allen, subbing for injured Frank Howard, cracked four hits, scored three times and drove in one run.

Jim Hannan, 4-2, lasted until the ninth for the victory.

Main Street Reflects Easy Congenial Pace

Amid a world of hustle and bustle in which few people have enough time to talk, let alone listen to each other, Tarlton stands as a quiet reminder of another way of life. The people are friendly and outgoing, the village pace is slow and relaxed and the tree lined streets, public benches and places of history seem to invite the passer-by to stop, talk and listen.

METHODIST CHURCH — The first religious affiliation in the village of Tarlton was Methodist, which met for the first time as early as 1893. The present church was built in 1839 or 1840 and has never been altered externally except for the spire which was damaged during a storm in 1919.

NEWS CENTER — Like the other grocery store in town the store above serves not only the need for food, but also for information and companionship. Villagers buy their groceries, trade information and sit on the public benches and relax.

OLD FRIENDS — Edgar Turvey (left) and O. W. Wellings relax in a shaded back yard and recall the happenings of the village over the past quarter of a century that they have lived there.

Los Angeles Drills for Oil Thought Beneath City Hall

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a search for new revenue, Los Angeles plans to drill for oil and gas beneath the 28-story City Hall, once the tallest building in Southern California.

The Board of Public Works approved a proposal Wednesday to drill for oil and gas below 46.7 acres of city-owned land in the Civic Center area, including the spot over which city councilmen are trying so hard to find revenue.

"We don't know exactly how much oil is down there," said city oil administrator Arthur O. Spaulding. "It probably won't be anything outstanding, but it should be profitable."

Spaulding said chances there would be oil and gas below the city office building were "pretty good—about 50-50."

The idea was proposed last March by the Standard Oil Co. after it discovered oil last fall at First and Carey streets, a half mile southeast of City Hall.

Bids for the drilling will be opened Nov. 20. Spaulding said if Standard Oil gets the bid, it would drill at a slant from its well at First and Carey Streets. There won't be a derrick at City Hall, he said.

Standard Oil's operation at First and Carey streets is drilling into a reserve estimated at 20 million barrels over 20 acres in the downtown area.

The pressing need for revenue which prompted the city to go into the oil business was sharply outlined last week when the state ruled Los Angeles would stop getting some $80 million a year in state sales tax money if it went ahead with a plan to increase the city sales tax by 1 per cent.

The pressure was eased somewhat when a key legislative committee voted to permit the city tax. The permission was only for six months, however, during which the City Council would have to find a permanent solution.

Reach Agreement on Food Transport for Biafrans

NIAMEY, Niger (AP) — Representatives of Nigeria and Biafra agreed Wednesday night on the transport through the Nigerian army's lines of desperately needed relief food for millions of refugees threatened with starvation.

The agreement before it takes effect must be ratified by the full delegations from the Nigerian government in Lagos and the secessionist Biafran regime which has been fighting to make eastern Nigeria independent.

Informed sources reported the accord calls for a 10-mile-wide demilitarized corridor running from Enugu to Ogoja, a distance of about 90 miles. The corridor will be supervised by civilians from the six members of the Organization of African Unity who arranged the Nigerian-Biafran conference in Niamey —Niger, the Congo, Ethiopia, Liberia, Ghana and Cameroon. It was understood that Biafra was also pressing for observers from the Ivory Coast, Gabon, Zambia and Tanzania, the four countries that have given diplomatic recognition to Biafra.

The Biafrans were expected to ask that the airport Enugu be demilitarized.

Both these demands were to be taken up at a meeting of the full delegations.

The delegations from Nigeria and Biafra met last week in Niamey, northwest of Nigeria, to arrange a resumption of negotiations to end the year-old civil war. But with world opin-

London to U.S. Race Is Slated

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio businessman has accepted a challenge from an English millionaire to race from London to New York City and then back to London, using air and ground transportation.

The race between Paul Vaughn, president of Filmco Inc., of Aurora, Ohio, and Edward Drewery, who deals in real estate, will begin on foot from the top of the General Post Office tower in London.

The two will then race to the top of the Empire State Building and return to the tower in London.

The Association of the Ohio Commodores, the Ohio Industrial Development Department and private businesses will sponsor Vaughn. The race will take place sometime between May 4-11 in 1969. It is sponsored by The London Daily Mail.

Clermont County Center Studied

CINCINNATI (AP) — A University of Cincinnati committee has approved a proposal to build an aerospace training center in nearby Clermont County, but final authorization is pending.

The university would operate the two-year center for the state of Ohio, but both the university and the Ohio Board of Regents must study the proposal further. Voter approval of capital improvement funds and action by the Ohio General Assembly is also needed.

The branch would specialize in aircraft maintenance technology and its planned two-year courses would lead to associated degrees or to transfer to a four-year college.

Gov. James A. Rhodes endorsed a suggested air academy in Clermont County eight months ago.
